Mostly sunny and warmer today with a high of 82 and a low of 64 degrees tonight. Probability of precipitation is 20 per cent. Winds from the south to southwest at 8 to 15 miles per hour. Outlook for Sunday—fair and warm. Yesterday's maximum temperature was 74 degrees and the minimum was 57. The precipitation was .18.

Kinzua Dam Report

Pool level 1327.82 feet (desired summer pool level 1328, maximum 1365). Outflow temperature 66 degrees; upper reservoir 69 degrees. Reading at the Warren gauge 3.19 feet.

WARREN COUNTY

A group of Warren area businessmen want to create a tourist attraction; a steam engine and three train cars to run between Glade and the Kinzua Dam, Page One.

William M. Hill Jr. of Warren has been named to the executive committee of a regional group which is attempting to improve health services and reduce costs in 16 northwestern Pennsylvania counties, Page One.

THE NATION

The Treasury Department and the Budget Bureau came up with the final figures for the last fiscal year and disclosed that the deficit in the administrative budget was $9.9 billion. That was a little over a billion less than had been predicted in a revised budget presented to Congress in May. It was the second largest deficit since World War II.

The nation's highest military court, the U.S. court of military appeals, ordered hearings into charges that an Army base commander in Missouri had influenced his officers to impose generally heavy sentences on persons convicted after court-martial trials. A total of 44 soldiers had challenged their convictions on the ground that Maj. Gen. T. H. Lipscomb had exercised improper "command influence" over the officers who sat on the court-martial board.

Leaders of a national conference on Black Power rejected the idea that Negroes were responsible for preventing racial violence in Negro ghettos and declared that the responsibility rested with white people. Floyd B. McKissick, chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality, speaking for a delegation of leaders at the conference, said that "white people control the government, the money and the ghettos."

THE WORLD

Banking officials in Britain reported that the United Arab Republic is running at a deficit of about $400-million a year. Some sources feel that it was Egypt's desperate economic situation that led President Nasser to gamble his country's future during the recent confrontation with Israel.

The Algerian Supreme Court ordered that former premier Moise Tshombe be extradited to the Congo. Tshombe arrived in Algiers after his private plane had been hijacked on a flight over the Mediterranean. In the Congo, meanwhile, President Mobutu indicated that Tshombe would be executed swiftly after his return, and without any new trial.

Political observers in Peking have noticed that there may be serious differences between North Vietnam and Communist China. The potential break, which began in 1966, may have entered a new and decisive phase.

Albert Lutuli, a former Zulu chief who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1960 for his fight against the South African policy of apartheid, died in South Africa soon after being involved in a train accident. For the last several years, Lutuli had been prohibited from expressing his political views in his country.

SPORTS

Warren Beverage meets Ferraro Ford in a playoff for the first half title in the Erie Glenwood Baseball League today. The Fordmen, who have won 11 league games in a row, will probably send Chuck Shreve with a 10-0 record to the hill against Scott Melville for the Beveragemen. Page A6.

Tommy Aaron, who has never won a tourney in seven years as a pro, fired a record-setting 65 that included nine birdies to take a four-stroke lead at the midway point of the PGA Championship. First round leader Dave Hill and two others are tied for second and Jack Nicklaus fell seven strokes off the pace. Page A6.

A Texas district judge ordered the Curtis Cokes-Joe Harris fight to go on as scheduled Monday night, overruling a decision by boxing officials. Both fighters had left Dallas and will be cabled to return. Page A6.

Jimmy Foxx, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, died yesterday at 59. He had slugged 534 home runs during a 20-year career and compiled a .325 lifetime batting average. Page A7.

Death Waits Tshombe In Congo

ALGIERS (AP) — The Algerian Supreme Court ruled yesterday that Congolese ex-premier Moise Tshombe must return to the Congo, where he is condemned to die before a firing squad for high treason.

His transfer from an Algerian military stockade to the Congo is expected to be secret to frustrate any attempt by white mercenaries or others to free him by force.

"For us he is a dead man," Congo President Joseph D. Mobutu told newsmen yesterday in Kinshasa.

"Tshombe was judged and sentenced to death by our courts,"

Tshombe, who led the Katanga Province secession from the central Congo government in 1960, looked grim and worried as the court branded him "a common criminal" and approved the Congo's extradition request. He was condemned by a Congolese military court March 13.

In London, Lord Russell of Liverpool, a jurist and expert on war crimes, asked in a cable last night that Mobutu spare Tshombe's life.

Russell's message to Mobutu said: "On behalf of myself and my fellow countrymen who are appalled at the news of Tshombe's extradition from Algeria, and in the name of justice and humanity, I appeal to you not to carry out his execution but to allow him to return to Europe."

Tshombe was brought to Algeria June 30 when his chartered plane was hijacked at gunpoint on a flight over Spain's Balearic Islands.

His abduction to Algeria was followed by an uprising in eastern Congo cities led by white mercenaries. Algerian authorities said they still consider it possible that white mercenaries may try to rescue Tshombe if they get the slightest hint.

Warren Man Is Named to New Health Group

William M. Hill Jr. was named as one of the executive committee for the Northwest Pennsylvania Health Facilities Planning Council at a meeting in Oil City this past Wednesday night.

The group was formed to improve health services and reduce costs in 16 northwestern Pennsylvania counties. It is modeled after other regional associations that have found ways to curb overconstruction, correct deficiencies in existing health facilities, prevent unnecessary duplication, attract federal grants, and promote high quality health care.

Backers of the council Wednesday evening elected 21 directors, selected officers, and adopted by-laws. The executive committee plans to meet in September to lay down a financing plan.

G. A. Harshman of Sharon, president of the group, said the Commonwealth has assured the organization that a charter will be granted. Now the group must settle money matters and select an executive director. The area embraced by the council covers 12,000 square miles and 1.2 million people. The counties covered are Armstrong, Clearfield, Butler, Cameron, Clarion, Crawford, Elk, Erie, Forest, Jefferson, Lawrence, McKean, Mercer, Potter, Venango and Warren.

BUT PROJECT IS STYMIED

Tourist Train Planned

By LES RICKEY

A group of Warren businessmen have been working for five years to develop a train from Glade Bridge to Kinzua Dam, it was disclosed yesterday.

Russell Templeton, 61, Prospect st., owner of Templeton Funeral Home, said in a letter that the project has been stymied by the Pennsylvania Railroad, owner of the trackage and right-of-way which now exists in the area.

Templeton visualizes the tourist train as steam-powered with two or three coaches making runs to the dam daily.

The Pennsylvania Railroad

has been adamant toward efforts to purchase the trackage. The last word received from the company, Templeton said, was that it intended to take up some of the rail—it is 130-pound rail, a type rarely forged any longer.

The Chamber of Commerce in 1965 sponsored a get-together of seven local businessmen who were interested in developing the tourist facility, Templeton said, but their efforts to budge the railroad have failed thus far. They include Bruce Knales, former postmaster and a local businessman, Templeton said, "who knows several PRR men in high offices."

"I still envision a steam excursion train from the Glade area to the dam, as I believe no finer scenic area is to be found in the U.S.," Templeton said.

The three-coach train envisioned by Templeton would, he said, be a prime tourist attraction for the area. He is a steam buff and has visited other areas where the nostalgic steam engine has been used with great success.

"I question the statement that such an attraction would probably not pay for itself," Templeton said. "I have visited probably all such steam excursions in the East and some in the South and Midwest, and find that they are all doing a thriving business."

Templeton included a news release from the Travel Department Bureau of Pennsylvania on the Everett Historic Railroad Company, which began operation on May 29, 1965. Tours are conducted from Mt. Dallas to Tatesville, about seven miles round trip through Bedford County. It moves on old Reading RR trackage.

"This is nothing," Templeton said, "compared to what we have to offer here. In talking to one of the principles involved in this railroad, they had planned to haul about 10,000 passengers in their first year in operation. They ended up hauling over 50,000. So, you see, they do quite a business."

After 5 Weeks, UN 'Emergency' Session Is Over

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.

(AP) — The General Assembly adjourned its five-weeks-old emergency session last night and tossed the search for a Middle East peace settlement back to the Security Council.

The assembly acted after the Arabs torpedoed a last-minute peace plan presented to them by the Soviet Union and waged a last ditch battle against adjournment.

The vote on the adjournment resolution was 63 to 26, with 27 abstentions.

Arab countries voted against the adjournment resolution, reflecting their bitterness over what they interpreted as an attempt to cover up failure to achieve any kind of success in dealing with the aftermath of the Israeli-Arab war.

The lineup found the Soviet bloc countries opposed to the Arabs and voting yes with the United States and Britain, France abstained.

The outcome was a defeat for the Soviet Union, which had asked for the emergency session to obtain condemnation of Israel as an aggressor. The result was highly satisfactory to the United States, which had opposed holding the special session and argued that the issue should be kept in the Security Council.

The speech by Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika was typical of the Arab reaction to the windup of the session.

He said the assembly had failed to achieve any real result and added: "I do not see how in the light of this failure my delegation can countenance a camouflaging of it in a resolution."

The assembly took a recess at 6:30 p.m. and returned at 8 p.m. to vote on the adjournment resolution.

The sponsors revised the text of the adjournment resolution to include a reference to resolutions adopted and proposals discussed at the emergency session.

sion, and to note that the council is already occupied with the Middle East issue.

Some delegates had objected that a specific request to the council to resume consideration was not necessary. But the resolution still specified that the council should take up the tense Middle East problem as a matter of urgency.

The procedural adjournment resolution was presented by Swedish Ambassador Sverker Aström.

It called on the Security Council "to resume the consideration of the tense situation in the Middle East as a matter of urgency."

Autograph Party a Hit at Local Store

By FRANKLIN HOFF

The autograph party for local author Marian Potter at Levinson's book department from one to three Friday afternoon was a success.

Mrs. Potter's new book "Copperfield Summer" attracted attention. Many parents and grandparents bought copies for their children and grandchildren.

Small fry were attracted by Marian Potter's first book, the Golden Book "The Little Red Caboose," which she also autographed for gift copies, helping it toward a two-million-copy sales volume. "Milepost 67" the author's second book, written for older children, was also popular.

All three of her books for children tell a great deal about their author and her keen awareness of homely everyday happenings, the difficulties of growing up, and the details of Midwest life in small towns and on farms "only yesterday."

For those who missed getting to Levinson's Friday, the book department will arrange to have copies autographed, for a time at least, by the author.

N. Vietnam, China Clash

(C) N. Y. Times News Service
PEKING (Agence France-Presse) — Serious political differences between North Vietnam and Communist China, which became apparent in 1966, have entered a new and perhaps decisive phase, observers here said yesterday.
They were commenting on an editorial published in the official newspaper Jueimin Jih Pao, hailing the arrival of a North Vietnamese economic delegation Thursday. The editorial called on Hanoi to choose between Moscow and Peking in their ideological and political quarrel.
It repeated a statement by the Chinese foreign minister, Chen Yi:
"The struggle between the two lines on the Vietnam question is the concrete expression of the acuteness of the international class struggle. To oppose imperialism, it is imperative to oppose the counter-revolutionary line of the Soviet revisionist ruling group. There is no middle road in the struggle between the two lines."
The publication of this statement seems important for these reasons:
... It coincides with the arrival of the North Vietnamese delegation, headed by Vice Premier Le Thanh Nghi, and with the return to Peking of the North Vietnamese ambassador, Ngo Minh Loan, who had been in Hanoi.
It follows the death on July 6, announced in Hanoi, of the North Vietnamese strategist of the war, Gen. Nguyen Chi Thanh, who is believed to have been the most "Maoist" of the Vietnamese leaders.
—It allows the publication by the United States of secret documents captured in South Vietnam that, if authentic, tend to indicate that Le Duan, first general secretary of the North Vietnam Workers' Party, and Gen. Nguyen Van Vinh, believed to be in charge of the North's liaison with the Viet Cong, disagree with the Chinese.
According to the documents, these leaders consider that North Vietnam should maintain good relations with both Moscow and Peking and believe that they should fight on in Vietnam not so much until a final victory -- as advocated by the Chinese -- as until a favorable moment to negotiate.

Negro-White Vows Are Taken Legally

(C) N. Y. Times News Service
NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The first legal Negro-white marriage in this state took place yesterday in an informal ceremony on the steps of the city hall and courthouse.
Under a blazing sun, Herman McDaniel Jr., a 29-year-old Negro, slipped wedding and engagement rings on the finger of Joyce Christine Prescott, a 34-year-old white woman. The Rev. David Vaughn, a Negro minister of a rural Baptist church near Callatin, Tenn., intoned nervously, "We have joined these two people together before God and all these witnesses. I now pronounce you man and wife."
The couple embraced in a long kiss while television and news cameramen recorded the event.
McDaniel is a dishwasher at a Nashville motel and his bride works there as a salad girl.
Neither had been married previously.
They were granted a marriage license after the state attorney general informed the county court clerk here that there was no prohibition against issuance of the permit. The United States Supreme Court ruled recently that a Virginia statute prohibiting inter-racial marriages is unconstitutional.
Asked when he proposed, McDaniel said, "I think we both knew what was happening in the beginning, and we liked each other."
Since 1822, and perhaps even before that, Tennessee has had a law prohibiting inter-marriage of whites and Negroes or "persons of mixed blood descended from a Negro, to the third generation inclusive." It also prohibits a Negro and white person from living together as man-and-wife. The maximum penalty is five years in prison.
There is no record of a prosecution under the statute since 1872, when it was upheld by the state supreme court.
Mrs. McDaniel said there would be no honeymoon, as the couple only has one day off and will return to work Sunday.

Actual '66 Budget Dwarfs Predictions

By EDWIN L. DALE JR.
(C) N. Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The deficit in the government's ordinary administrative budget in the fiscal year ended June 30 was $9.9 billion, the Treasury and Budget Bureau disclosed yesterday.
This was the second largest deficit since World War II. But because the economy has grown tremendously in the past six years, this deficit was actually smaller in relation to the nation's total output than several earlier ones.
The $9.9 billion deficit was slightly larger than the $9.7 billion estimated in the budget last January, midway through the fiscal year. But it was slightly smaller than the updated estimate of $11 billion presented to Congress in May.
While these changes were relatively small, the deficit and the entire expenditure picture of the government were drastically different from the original estimates for the fiscal year, presented in January, 1966.
At that time the President estimated expenditures at $112.8 billion and receipts at $111.0 billion for a deficit of $1.8 billion.
As it turned out, expenditures were $125.7 billion—a rise of about $13 billion above the estimate — and receipts were $115.8 billion, for a deficit of $9.9 billion. By far the most important element in the higher expenditures was the cost of the war in Vietnam.
Defense expenditures were estimated 18 months ago at $58.3 billion, of which $10.4 billion was attributed to Vietnam. They turned out to be $63.4 billion, of which about $20 billion was accounted for by the war. There was no official separation of the war cost in today's report.
The large variation had been essentially admitted by the time of last January's budget. Defense outlays turned out to be $470 million larger than this more recent estimate, which was not considered a large mistake in a total as big as $68 billion.
There were numerous changes, up and down, in the final results as compared with last January's estimates. The net change was a drop of $1 billion in expenditures.
Receipts were $1.2 billion below the January estimate, partly because personal income taxes were $700 million less than estimated.
Yesterday's report put "cash" budget expenditures at $155.3 billion in fiscal 1967 and receipts at $153.5 billion, for a deficit of $1.8 billion.
The budget includes the operations of the government's trust funds, for such programs as Social Security and highway building, which often run a surplus of receipts over expenses.
The third budget, the "National Income Accounts" budget, showed expenditures of $155.2 billion and receipts of $147.7 billion, for an unusually large deficit of $7.5 billion.
This budget includes trust funds, but excludes federal lending transactions, and also counts corporate profits taxes when the profits are earned rather than when the taxes are paid.
The National Income Accounts budget is widely regarded as the best measure of the impact of the government on the economy. The sizeable deficit indicated that the budget was stimulative in the past fiscal year with most of the stimulus coming in the first half of calendar year 1967, when the economy was sluggish.
A deficit spurs the economy because the government pumps more money into the spending stream than it takes out.
Today's final results for fiscal 1967 gave no significant clue to the size of the administrative budget deficit in fiscal 1968, which has just begun. The latest informal administration estimate is a deficit of $13.5 billion, and this assumes congressional passage of a tax increase.

Ike Wants War Decision

(C) N. Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Former President Eisenhower believes that it is time for Congress to decide whether to declare war in Vietnam.
The general thinks that the United States cannot win a war of "gradualism" in that Southeast Asian country, and that the nation's other goals should be relegated to second place. He also believes that a federal tax increase would not be needed now if the nation had set its priorities earlier.
Eisenhower's views were disclosed yesterday in the weekly newsletter published by the Republican Congressional Committee.
The newsletter said his comments were made in replies to questions from 34 first-term House Republicans at a meeting July 15 in Gettysburg, and that the general approved their publication in paraphrased form.
The newsletter paraphrases Eisenhower on the Vietnam war as follows:
"With 450,000 U.S. troops now in Vietnam, it is time that Congress decided whether or not to declare a state of war exists with North Vietnam."
"Previous congressional resolutions of support provide only limited authority."
"Although Congress may decide that the previously approved resolution on Vietnam given President Johnson is sufficient, the issue of a declaration of war should at least be put before the Congress for a decision."
The general's views on other aspects of the Vietnam situation, as paraphrased by the newsletter, were:
"Since we're sending American boys to fight and die for freedom in a hard, cruel war in Vietnam, that war should be given first priority. Other goals, however attractive, should take second place. Tax increases would not be needed if we had set priorities earlier."
"When you must use force to support a national aim, for example in the defense of another country's freedom, there is no higher authority to which you can appeal. Therefore, you must win."
"To do that, you need all the power you have and you must use it quickly and secretly so as to achieve surprise. You cannot win a war on gradualism."
"At the same time, we must help the South Vietnamese government to teach its people the value of freedom and self-government."
When President Kennedy came in, we had 735 advisers in Vietnam — and the situation didn't look bad. After 1962, when we sent 15,000 troops over there, the character of the war changed."
Eisenhower also was described as having said that the United States "must treat with the Russians" but should seek "solid guarantees" that they will keep their word because the "number of treaties they have broken is astronomical."
The general was reported to have said that the Panama Canal treaty under consideration "may represent the best arrangement we can get."

Tshombe might be held in Algeria until turbulence caused by the recent uprising calms. The court's decision must be ratified by the Algerian government, but that is regarded as a formality.
Tshombe's court appearance was under tight security and nearly 100 armed policemen roamed the courthouse.
The 275th Viet Cong Regiment, the cavalry unit was reinforced by a second cavalry troop and supported by artillery, gunship helicopters and air strikes.

General Faces Hearing on Misuse of Rank

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Military Appeals ordered the Army yesterday to hold a series of hearings to determine whether Maj. Gen. T. H. Lipscomb misused his rank to obtain stiff sentences in 17 cases.
If the Army finds he did it could bring new court martials in these and dozens of other cases. Yesterday's decision involved three test cases filed by 17 soldiers.
The unanimous opinion of the civilian tribunal was that a "serious question of command control has been raised." It ordered the cases reheard by an Army command higher than that of Lipscomb.
He is commanding general at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. Three test cases were presented charging that the general had urged court martial officers under his command to give heavy sentences so he could negotiate guilty pleas in exchange for reduced sentences.
Lipscomb has admitted getting in touch with court martial officers about their sentences but has denied trying to influence their decisions.
Col. Daniel T. Ghent, a senior appellate defense counsel for the Army, said the outcome of some 72 cases depend upon the appeals court decision. He added that a board of review had rejected allegations of command influence by Lipscomb.

Smethport Boy Accused of $600 Burglary

SMETHPORT — Darrell Carpenter, 17, who gave his address as Fulton House, Smethport, is in McKean County jail in lieu of $1,000 bail on charges of burglary and larceny in connection with the theft of more than $600 at the Kendall Service Station here last Saturday. Police Chief Abby Southwick stated a search warrant issued by Peace Justice Edward Rosenwie for the youth's room resulted in finding a .32 caliber rifle and a blackjack.

Police said Carpenter had been picked up Tuesday as a parole violator. He had been free on charges of robbing homes and camps.

At Fulton House police stated they found $400 in bills and $24.55 in coins. Checks said to amount to $200 and up were said to have been thrown into Marvin Creek. Gloves Carpenter was said to be wearing at the time were found near a skating rink on Water st.

Coudersport Police Probing Suicide

What may be a case of suicide by self-immolation is being closely watched by state police of the Coudersport substation as Mrs. Seth Bower, 28, lies in Andrew Kaul Memorial Hospital in St. Marys.

Mrs. Bower is listed in critical condition and not expected to live.

The woman was found Tuesday in a wooded area near Coudersport in critical condition with burns over 90 per cent of her body. Her clothing was charred but there was no evidence of fire in the area, according to Trooper A. K. Drabcho of the Coudersport station.

The trooper said further information on details of the suspected suicide attempt are being withheld since Mrs. Bower is still alive.

State police were notified Tuesday afternoon that Mrs. Bower's husband had found her about a half mile from the family's camp in Potter County.

Game Warden William Neely, who arrived on the scene with another warden Henry Leopold, said 90 per cent of the woman's clothing was burned off and that she was conscious but suffering from severe shock.

Bower told officials he had taken his two children to a store in nearby Keating summit and when he returned his wife was gone. He started out to find her.

Library Wants Dragon Annuals

One of the lesser-known, but very important collections maintained at the Warren Public Library is a group of Warren High School Dragons dating from 1906, the first year of publication. However, some issues are missing.

In order that the collection of Dragons may be complete, the library would welcome the gift of the following editions: 1911, 1912, 1913, 1929, 1961, 1962 and 1963.

Any individual who wishes to donate one of these Dragons to the public library may call 723-4650.

Rodgers is in Erie County jail in lieu of $2,000 bond.

The bill stipulates that the report contains:

(1)—Expenditures of the previous year by every department, branch or agency as well as itemized special tax expenses. (Miscellaneous items could not exceed 20 percent of the total expenditures.)

(2)—The adopted budget for the current year containing all items, including any new or additional sources of expense.

(3)—Dates and times of regular meetings of all the political entity's agencies.

It was provided that the report be published or distributed so as to reach the maximum number of taxpayers in the area concerned with the report.

The bill has been referred to the House Municipal Corporations Committee.

Sen. Frame Votes Yes For Five

State Senator Richard C. Frame voted for five bills which passed the Senate this week.

Included was House Bill 1140 which postpones until next July 1 the deadline for communities to comply with "Sewage Facilities Act of 1966," requiring submission of reports on conditions of sewerage facilities and projected improvements.

Two Senate bills dealing with the military also passed. One makes an appropriation of $660,000 to the Department of Military Affairs for assistance to veterans and their dependents while the second appropriates $81,000 to the department for pension payments to certain blind veterans.

SB 948 authorizes the deputy state police commissioner, Lt. Col. Joseph Dussia to collect a pay raise from $13,500 to $22,700 a year immediately instead of waiting until Sept. 1.

The fifth bill amends the County Code by further providing for classification of counties and establishment of prothonotary's fees.

Plowright Presents 'Virginia'

Plowright Playhouse's second summer season production "Streetcar Named Desire" has only two more opening curtains before ending its run, tonight and tomorrow at 8:30 p.m.

Larry K. Hamilton, director of the next play, had originally planned to do Bertolt Brecht's "Mother Courage," Staging proved impossible, but Hamilton borrowed part of the Edward Albee show's title when he had the courage to tackle the controversial "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

There were those who predicted the play could not be filmed but Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton proved otherwise in winning performances.

Since the aim of summer theater is to be different and daring, area theater-goers are looking forward to the opening next Wednesday of the Albee production.

Four top notch thespians are cast with Lois Byham and Bill Odell as Martha and George with Chip Lucia and Jennifer Beckley playing Nick and Honey.

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" runs from July 26 through August 6 with performances each evening except Mondays and Tuesdays.

Reservations are recommended. Phone Plowright Playhouse, 757-8252.

Kane Church Burns In Thursday Blaze

KANE — Fire of undetermined origin destroyed an addition to the 73-year old Hazelhurst Methodist Church at 3 a.m., Thursday.

Flames in the ceiling of the main sanctuary were checked by firemen of Mt. Jewett and Kane department units operating in mutual aid, who relayed water supplies from a portable pump in Marvin Creek through three pumps.

The fire was discovered by a neighbor when flames broke through the rear of the building. No injuries were reported.

'GOLDEN STICKER'

Ever since the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act became law, the Golden Sticker it fathered has been contested in varying degrees by the various federal agencies the law designated as participants. Some agencies went all out to enforce the charges set up by the act, others placed token charges on their facilities, while the U.S. Corps of Engineers almost openly defied the directive of Congress by failing to institute charges at any but a few of their recreational facilities.

The difference in attitude between federal agencies towards the Land and Conservation Fund Act has been most noticeable locally. While the $7 sticker is not required at any of the recreational facilities at the Tionesta Dam (Corps of Engineers), it is definitely required at recreational facilities in the vicinity of the Kinzua Dam (U.S. Forest Service). Both of these are federal installations and, under the act, should have established charges on an equitable basis.

This has not been the case, nor will it be if bills presently up for consideration in Congress become law.

In the early days of the 90th Congress, Jamie L. Whitten (Miss.) introduced a bill, H. R. 4927, that would "Prohibit the charging of entrance, admission, or other user fees under authority of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act" on Corps of Engineers projects. This bill did, however, allow for charges for special services such as bathhouse attendants, mechanical boat launchers, and supplying fuels for picnickers. H. R. 4927 was referred to the House Committee on Public Works February 6, 1967.

Now two similar bills have been introduced.

H. R. 11237, introduced by Edwin Edwards (La.) and Speedy O. Long (La.) goes a step further than Whitten's H. R. 4927. It specifically states, "No charges could be leveled for use of any boat mooring, docking facility, duck blind, ski-jump float, and other similar facilities on any Army Engineers project."

The other, H. R. 11243, introduced by James Kee (W. Va.), is almost identical to H. R. 11237.

So it seems that rather than getting together on the charge system set up by the Land and Water Conservation Act, the agencies involved are going their separate ways.

The question becoming important locally is, "If these bills, or any one of them, become law, where will it leave us?" Three local dams, all constructed by the Corps of Engineers, will be regulated by three different agencies. Tionesta will be supervised by the Corps, Kinzua by the Forest Service, and East Branch by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Can the system of charges be equal under these circumstances?

Will the user of one dam have a distinct advantage over the user of another?

And, will the "user" advantage become an economic asset to the favored dam at the expense of the communities where the less-favored dams are located?

The Congress, which has been outstandingly remiss in working out the inequalities that have existed in the "Golden Sticker" program ever since it was instituted, will only add to the confusion that exists if serious consideration is given these bills.

If the "Golden Eagle" (sticker) program is worthy at all, and Congress tells us that it is, then a standard set of charges should be worked out to eliminate the discrepancies and compliance by all "recreational" agencies made mandatory.

Tax Strategy for 1967-1968

Let's assume Congress votes a surtax to be imposed on your income in 1968. Let's assume you are in an income tax bracket high enough to make you wonder whether you should be adopting a tax strategy in the months immediately ahead to minimize the impact of the surcharge on you.

Specifically, if you can, should you begin to plan to speed up some of your income from 1968 into 1967? Similarly, if you can, should you begin to plan to defer some of your expenses from 1967 into 1968?

Probably not. After discussing the question at length with Leon Gold, chief tax expert of the Research Institute of America, and hearing all the pros and cons, the answer I come to is:

Despite the fact that this strategy of switching income and expenses appears superlatively attractive, it probably won't be worthwhile for most of us. Here's why.

(1) The surtax, even if it is higher than the 6 per cent widely mentioned, would not boost your income tax debt significantly. A tax increase of the type and proportion anticipated would have only a modest impact on your financial position.

(2) If you accelerate income from 1968 into 1967 or defer expenses from 1967 into 1968 in order to boost this year's income and cut next year's, you must pay income tax on the amount of extra income generally a year sooner. You lose the use of this total tax paid for a full year. This is questionable tax strategy, considering what you can earn on savings today or considering what you would have to pay in interest if you had to borrow the money to pay the tax owed.

(3) You must, of course, estimate your income and expenses for both 1967 and 1968 and your estimates can be wrong, especially for 1968. As Gold says, "If your 1968 estimates turn out to be overly optimistic, they can cost you higher taxes plus having to pay the higher tax in advance."

Let's be specific. Say you are a married man expecting your taxable income in 1967 and in 1968 to be about $34,000. Say the 1968 surtax is 6-10 per cent and say you can accelerate $2,000 of your 1968 income into this year. In your bracket, this $2,000 will be taxed at a 42 per cent rate, or $840, whether you collect it in 1967 or in 1968. The difference is that in 1968, between $50,40 and $84 might be added to the $840 tax, as a surtax.

Your question is: would it pay to lay out $840 a year sooner and lose what you might earn on the $840, in order to save between $50,40 and $84 in 1968?

The answer comes through even more clearly if you would have to borrow the $840. Say the surcharge is 10 per cent — or $84. Say you borrow the $840 at 6 per cent. From your $84 surcharge you must deduct the $50,40 interest on your loan. To this result, you can add the $21.17 you save by deducting the interest charge on your income tax return. Your net saving would be only $54.77. Is it worth it?

You also must consider the possibility that your 1968 income might drop, say to $30,000. Even with a 10 per cent surcharge in 1968, this development would virtually wipe out your tax savings.

While the general rule calls for shifting income and expenses to keep your 1967 and 1968 income tax brackets about equal, you may be in a situation demanding an entirely different strategy.

Say you are now single and plan to marry in 1968. Even with a surtax, you will, as a married man, pay substantially lower rates on your income in 1968. So push income into 1968 and push expenses into 1967.

Say you are married and plan to be divorced in 1968. You will, as a divorced man, pay substantially higher rates on your income in 1968. So push income into 1967 and push expenses into 1968.

Your strategy for a 1968 surtax must be decided on an individual basis. Gold emphasizes — against the background of your expected income, your need for money, your possible tax savings, the ease with which you could arrange for acceleration of income or deferral of expenses.

But the odds are that after you've done all your arithmetic, most of you will decide to stay put.

ART BUCHWALD

Prosperity And Miniskirts

WASHINGTON — My good friend Charlie Collingwood mentioned on the tube the other night that during times of prosperity women's skirts get longer, but that during times of economic hardship skirts get shorter.

I wouldn't have given it a second thought, except that I happened to be in New York City the other day and I was walking down Fifth Ave. with my wife.

A girl in a miniskirt was walking toward us and my eyes boggled. Naturally, my wife got angry. "You don't have to stare," she said.

"You wouldn't say that if you knew what I was doing," I said. "I know very well what you're doing. You're filling your head with evil thoughts."

"That's not true," I said. "What I'm really doing is figuring out the stock market. If it's true that skirts go up during periods of recession we may be in for a very bad time."

Another girl walked by with a skirt three inches above her knees. "Do you know what that tells me?" I asked my wife. "I'd rather not guess," she retorted.

"It tells me I should sell my A&T. But the question is, what should I buy instead?" "I'd suggest a pair of field glasses," she said.

"Now stop acting that way. If Charlie's theory is right we stand to gain or lose a lot of money, and I should think you'd be as concerned as I am."

"Why don't you read the Wall Street Journal or subscribe to a financial newsletter like everybody else?" "Because this method is foolproof. Look at that girl over there with her skirt almost up to her thighs. That could mean either of two things — tax-free bonds are going to be in demand or the bottom is going to fall out of mutual funds."

"The bottom is going to fall out of something else if she tries to hail a cab," my wife said.

"You're letting your mind wander," I remonstrated. "These girls are trying to tell us something, if only we had the key."

Two ladies in miniskirts were looking into the Bergdorf Goodman window.

"Now what does that tell you?" my wife said angrily. "Maybe I should sell short. They say the Dow Jones averages can't go much higher."

"I wish the same could be said about the skirts."

"To most men," I explained, "miniskirts mean nothing more than a leg show. But when I see a miniskirt I immediately think of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith."

"What about your other lecherous friends?"

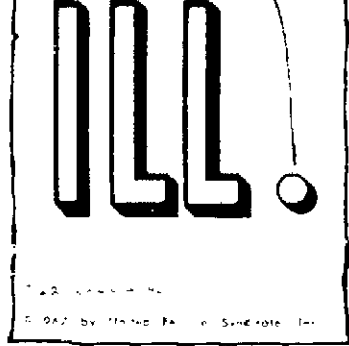

"They're not lecherous friends. They're a brokerage house," I explained. "I'll bet they're out on the streets doing the same thing I'm doing right now."

We went by Saks Fifth Ave. and my wife said she wanted to stop in for a moment. She suggested I study the industrialists while I waited.

A half-hour later she came out, wearing a miniskirt. "What are you doing?" I cried.

"I've decided to play the market. If there's going to be a recession, I might as well be part of it while it lasts."

THE STORY OF A REDWOOD

PEARSON & ANDERSON

George Likes to Use Trains

WASHINGTON — The President acted with characteristic telephonic speed to assemble his mediation board to act on the railway controversy.

He phoned Fred Kappel, retired chairman of American Telephone and Telegraph, in Switzerland and reached George Meany in Miami. Meany immediately got on a train to return to Washington. The strike ended a few hours before train-time, which was fortunate because George likes to use trains, not planes, whenever possible.

What the President is hoping to do is get a wage agreement acceptable to both the shopcraft unions and the railways long before the two-year deadline expires in 1969.

To this end he picked the mediation board carefully. Ex-Senator Leverett Saltonstall is a Republican moderate who had a record of being fair to labor. Ted Kheel of New York is one of the top labor mediators in the nation.

Finally, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., knows labor problems better than any other member of Congress, having served as Chairman of the War Labor Board, and as a Senator having mediated the end of four national strikes.

One man, however, blew his top at Morse's appointment—Roy Siemiller, head of the Machinists. He was sore because Morse had led the Senate fight for the limited arbitration act which ended the strike, the first compulsory arbitration act in American history.

Other labor leaders did not share Siemiller's indignation. They have known Morse for 30 years, respect him as a man who calls the shots as he sees them for the best interest of the country.

There were a few labor leaders who preferred that Meany not serve on the board, but the majority felt that, since mediation-arbitration was now a law, the best thing to do was go along with the law and have Meany help carry it out as a representative for labor.

Note: The President's stamp of approval on Morse by making him chairman of the board probably means that Morse's Democratic opposition in Oregon will evaporate. Ex-Congressman Dan Duncan was making noises about running in the Democratic primary against Morse on a pro-Vietnam platform, hoping to get LBJ's support. LBJ's appointment of Morse for the top mediation job in the nation means the President is for Morse's reelection regardless of Vietnam.

One of the factors contributing to ghetto window smashing—loan sharks and high interest rates —is due shortly for a hassle in Congress. The argument will be between the Senate, which has just passed a truth-in-lending bill, and the House Banking and Currency Committee, which, despite the Senate vote of 92-0, doesn't consider this bill adequate.

Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana, Tex., chairman of the committee, and Rep. Leonor Sullivan of St. Louis, long-time consumer protector, don't think the Senate bill will do much to protect small-time installment buyers and victims of high interest rates.

Here are a few of the flaws in the Senate bill, which they think the lending lobbies put across on the Senators:

"Full disclosure" requirements do not cover first mortgage real estate loans. Thus on a $20,000 home loan at 6 per cent interest a bank or loan company is required to state the interest is 6 per cent, but is not required to disclose numerous settlement charges—such as placement fees—sometimes running the interest rate up to 8 or 10 per cent.

Credit charges of $10 or less also are exempt from disclosure under the Senate bill. Thus if a slum dweller buys $300 worth of appliances and is charged a high interest rate on installment, this interest rate would have to be disclosed.

However, if the seller is smart, he can, by offering small discounts on purchases, fix it so the buyer will split up the $300 purchase into separate transactions, so the credit charge on each transaction is less than $10. In this case, disclosure of the interest rate is not mandatory under the Senate truth-in-lending bill.

The Senate bill also does not cover certain advertising gimmicks, as when a loan company operating in Washington, D.C., and Silver Spring, Md., recently sent out an enticing letter to prospective customers, offering a $2,500 home improvement loan at 6 per cent interest.

Investigation by Patman's committee revealed that the 6 per cent was a fraudulent come-on. Actually, a customer would have to pay a number of hidden charges, including life and disability insurance, also a credit check fee, bringing the interest up to 19 per cent—not 6 per cent.

The California cosmetics manufacturer, William Penn Patrick, who is financing the recall move against Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has just chalked up a unique score for himself. He has been nominated as a Vice Presidential candidate of the so-called "Patriotic Party," running with George Wallace of Alabama for President.

The nominating speech for Patrick was made at the party's Kansas City convention by Robert Bolivar de Pugh, national chairman of the Patriotic Party and leader of the Minutemen. De Pugh was convicted in 1966 of violating the Federal Firearms Act.

De Pugh described Patrick as a "self-made millionaire at the age of 37." He is head of the "Holiday Magic" cosmetics company, and financed the printing of the circulars which flooded Idaho demanding the recall of Sen. Church. Patrick considered Church too moderate on foreign affairs. So far the recall movement has pretty well fizzled; has turned a lot of Republicans in favor of Church, a Democrat.

"Quite a few leaders throughout the nation have encouraged me to run," proclaimed Patrick modestly in Kansas City.

Note: About 125 persons attended the Patriotic Party convention in Kansas City.

What Really Happened

WASHINGTON — There was the photograph for world publication of the President, Gen. William Westmoreland, Gen. Earle Wheeler and Defense Secretary Robert McNamara. There was the strange press conference, with all registering emphatic agreement. What really happened, however?

This question, about the true nature of the Vietnam decisions taken 10 days ago, is still being hotly argued, both privately and publicly. The answer comes in three parts.

The first part of the answer is simple enough. The party that Secretary McNamara led to Vietnam, before the publicized White House gathering, was somewhat surprised to find the war going a good deal better than they had expected. And on this point they found, too, that Gen. Westmoreland emphatically agreed with them.

To begin with, North Vietnamese performance had fallen far short of the predictions of the staff in Saigon. On the so-called demilitarized zone, the enemy had been expected to mount an attack of five-division strength. The attack, when it occurred, was costly enough; but it was repulsed with fearful enemy losses, and it barely reached the strength of three divisions.

After that—indeed quite recently—an attack of two-division strength was expected to be launched from the enemy's Cambodian-Laothian sanctuary into the central highlands of Vietnam. The capture of Kontum, a major provincial center, was momentarily feared. But this attack, again, fell much further short of expectation than one could have hoped. Two feints were made, but neither was even an inoffensive strength.

In the big-unit war, in short, there were clear indications that the Hanoi war-planners were finding the going increasingly rough. Meanwhile—and this is probably even more important—there were also clear indications that more efficient air tactics and new weapons, plus the sheer accumulation of bomb damage, were beginning to increase the toll of the Northern bombing on something resembling a geometrical progression. (Hence, the old questioning of the bombing, inside the government, has been all but silenced.)

As to the second part of the answer, it hooks onto the first part. No doubt for the precise reason above-cited, the first signs are beginning to be observable of divisions of council in Hanoi. Certain leaders are no longer making the old, boldly confident predictions of eventual victory on the ground that the Americans will eventually give up and go away. Premier Pham Van Dong has instead most recently described the war as being "sans issue," which means "no way out."

Finally, the answer's third part is to be found in the nature of Gen. Westmoreland's request for more troops. He put forward two phased programs, each extending over periods of two years and more. The optimum program called for a bit more than four additional divisions. The minimum program called for two additional divisions, plus a brigade. It was specified that the new troops could be South Korean, Australian, American or from some other Allied source.

It is important to note, first of all, that both programs were phased and that the first phases of both programs, extending approximately to the end of this year, were very nearly identical. In this period, it appears, both programs called for something like one additional division plus an extra brigade.

The real decision, therefore, was evidently to give Gen. Westmoreland everything that he had asked for the first phase and to promise to review the problem, in the light of new circumstances, toward the end of this year or the beginning of next year. By then it will have been learned whether the South Koreans can contribute another division and the Australians a brigade, for example. What can be done to increase American troop-availability will also be known.

In short, Gen. Westmoreland's immediate needs have been met; yet the evil day of choice about such matters as a call-up of reserves and even mobilization has also been put off. This was perhaps the logical course to take, in view of the symptoms of diminishing capabilities and rising disagreements in Hanoi.

It means that when Gen. Westmoreland and Gen. Wheeler told the White House press conference that they were fully satisfied, they were really saying they were satisfied for now. It means, too, that the President's evil day of choice may quite easily recur in another six months or less, depending on what happens on the war fronts in the interval.

The fact remains that the President's interest and the national interest is to go on intensifying the pressure—not irrationally in the big-bomber general way, but coolly and remorselessly—until it becomes too much for Hanoi. If the choice has to be made, that must surely be the choice.

LARRY STOTZ

Homely Looking Stove

The sophisticated eastern camper has probably never even heard of the famous Sibley stove which, since Civil War days, has warmed the tents of campers in the back country of the northern Rockies.

I first encountered this homely looking contraption in 1924 in the Montana Rockies. Ten years later we were still using Sibley stoves in our tent camps in New Mexico.

The cone-shaped Sibley stove resembled in appearance an Indian tepee. It was the invention of Major Henry Hopkins Sibley, a Dragon officer of the old West. What it lacked in appearance, it made up for in utility.

The Sibley was a s about thirty inches tall with a diameter of about eighteen inches at the base. Unlike a any other stove that I ever saw, it had no bottom. It was designed to be set directly on the dirt floor of a tent. About half way up there was a small square door that provided access for fueling this wood-burning stove.

Five sections of standard stovepipe connected to the top of the stove provided ample draft. Once it was decided where to place the unit, a hole was cut through the roof of the tent and a flat metal guard installed so that the heat from the pipe wouldn't scorch the tent canvas. Then the pipe was fitted snugly through the opening. There was no need for installing elbows with this type of stove. Nor was there any need for a damper in the pipe. A much simpler device for controlling the draft had already been included in Major Sibley's plans when he dreamed up this stove. He had provided for a small semi-circular opening at the bottom of the stove, just large enough for an inquisitive chipmunk to enter and burn his whiskers.

If the stove turned a cherry red on a cold night, and an ominous sound like the labored puffing of a steam locomotive climbing a mountain grade issued from the pipe, all one had to do was kick a little pile of dirt in front of the draft hole. With the air effectively cut off, things calmed down in a hurry.

A twenty-five pound Sibley made a nice top load for a pack mule. It was so simple in design and so sturdily built that it was practically indestructible — a valuable trait for any piece of equipment that might roll down a mountain side on a spooked pack mule.

I still cherish memories of sitting around the Sibley stove with comrades of the trail. Some of them were bewildered, tobacco-chewing old woodsmen who, with marvelous accuracy, bounced mouthfuls of brown saliva off the cherry red stove with a delightful-sounding "ping." Others contented themselves with rolling Bull Durham cigarettes and swapping tall tales. Outside, the coyotes' lonely cries mingled with the sigh of the wind in the fir trees.

On a stormy night, the old Sibley stove was a real comfort in the wilderness. With a good stock-pile of dry wood in a corner of the tent, and the tent flaps securely tied, we paid little attention to the beating rain and the howling winds outside. We were snug and warm around the little stove that Major Sibley dreamed up so long ago.

Smokey Says:

Grateful!

An elderly taxpayer phoned his IRS office to check certain medical deductions he might claim. The assistant pointed out to him an additional exemption and expenses which he had not claimed. The man stated that he was a naturalized citizen who immigrated some years ago, prospered and raised a family and was grateful to the United States for the advantages given him. He did not want so large a refund. It required some persuading to convince him he should pay only his proper tax. He then wanted to know where he could send his refund in order that the Government could use it to help someone else!

Town Crier

... By Les Rickey

Chickens always come home to roost, they say. So do columns. The first to return this week was the suggestion that someone investigate a tourist train from Glade Bridge. Well, that story is elsewhere in this issue and I'll say nothing more than that this is the kind of thing I like to hear.

The second was intriguing too. It came from J. Alvin Dru'yor, president of the Travelmat Corp. in Prairie du Chien, Wis. (a very nice town, incidentally).

Mr. Dru'yor pointed out that I missed the Travelmat in the Penn Laurel on Route 6, which mentions Warren quite prominently. He also said he'd like to add a restaurant or sleeping spot in Warren to the Route 62 Travelmat.

The Travelmat president, quite understandably, could not quite fathom why I mentioned that "they missed the Mississippi River, too." The Travelmats are not maps, he said, and Warren isn't in the area where the great river flows.

Heck, Mr. Dru'yor, I know that. It's just that on slow days, you've got to keep your hand in. How was I to know you'd hear about it?

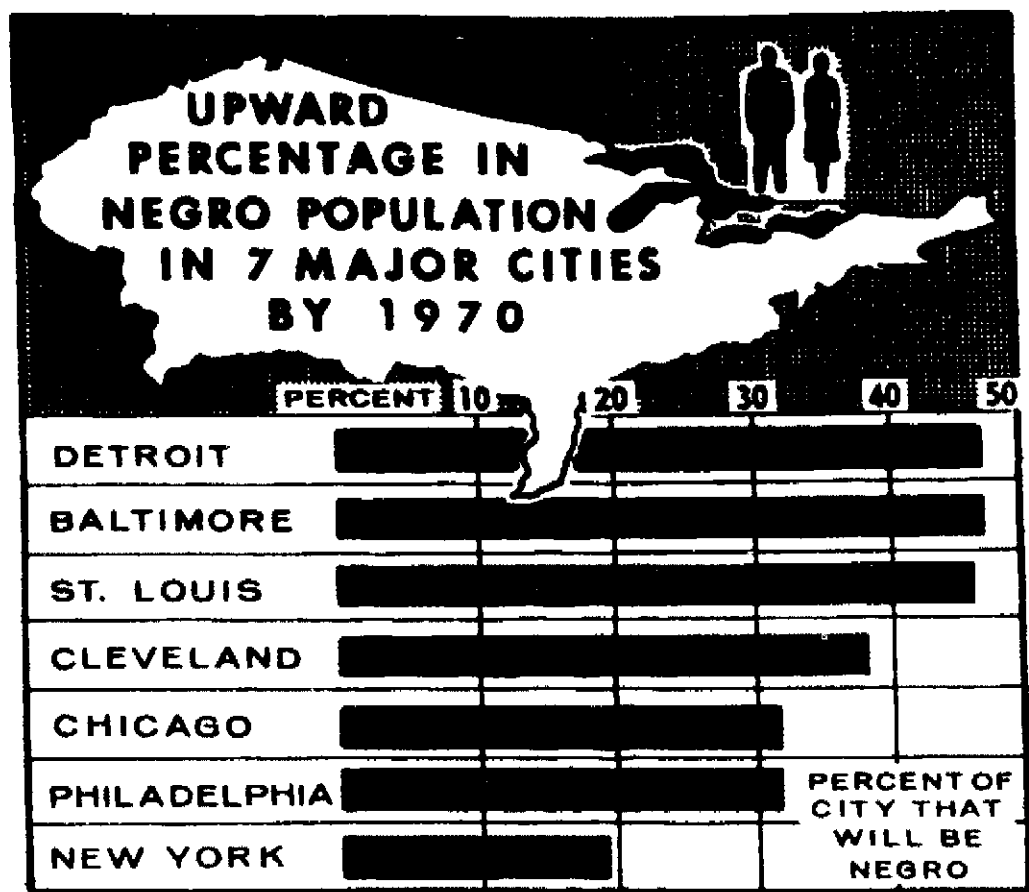

I shot an arrow into the air—and powl, it tore three shingles right off the roof.

FUTURE NEGRO POPULATION

This graph shows the projected increase, in seven major U.S. cities. The projection is based on new statistics published by the Center for Research in Marketing. By 1970, Detroit and Baltimore will have a 47 per cent Negro population, it is estimated; St. Louis's, 46 per cent; Cleveland's, 38 per cent; Chicago's, 32 per cent; Philadelphia's, 32 per cent; and New York's, 19 per cent.

FOR MENTAL PATIENTS

'Attitude Therapy' Works

BY JANE E. BRODY

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — The severely depressed patient was told—with "kind firmness"—to count hundreds of tiny sea shells into a cigar box.

After three days, the patient became fed up and dumped all the shells on the floor. With that expression of anger and frustration, his depression began to lift.

Another patient, who arrived at the hospital in an uncontrollable rage, was told that no demands would be made on him. He broke more than 80 windows before he realized that he was not impressing anyone. Then he began to settle down.

These are examples of the "attitude therapy program" at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Tuscaloosa, Ala. Dr. James C. Golsom, director of the hospital said in a telephone interview Thursday that the program has saved millions of dollars and made it possible to treat 1,537 additional patients during the last four years. Each patient spends less time in the hospital and more of his hospital stay in open wards, the doctor said.

Folsom, the only psychiatrist on the staff, makes the most of the hospital's personnel because everyone — from administrators to maintenance men — participates in the attitude therapy program.

Attitude therapy, Folsom explained, is based on the concept that "most mental illnesses can be viewed as a pattern of maladaptive responses learned by the individual."

The goal of treatment is to improve the patient's adjustment to life by teaching himself to respond to situations more appropriately. For example, many depressed persons are believed to be suffering from an underlying anger that they are unable to express, an anger that they have turned inwardly upon themselves.

Instead of feeding the depressed patient's regression from reality by sympathizing with him, attitude therapy assumes a "no-nonsense" approach. Everyone who comes into contact with the patient treats him with "kind firmness." At the same time, the patient is compelled to carry out dull, tedious tasks all day long until he learns to express his anger outwardly.

On the other hand, a patient who enters the hospital withdrawn and apathetic is treated with "active friendliness." He is overwhelmed with care from everyone he encounters at the hospital until he begins to overcome his fear of failure and to take an interest in himself and others.

Audiometers Fail; Found 100% Faulty

BY HAROLD M. SCHMECK JR.
(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Nationwide efforts to test people for defective hearing may be failing because of inaccurate equipment, a three-year study by the Public Health Service suggests.

In the study more than 100 audiometers from doctors' offices, health departments, public schools, hospitals and the like, were tested for reliability. Not one passed the examination. Most were grossly out of calibration. One of the instruments, taken from the office of a practicing physician had a rat's nest inside.

"We were appalled," said Dr. Joseph L. Stewart, audiology consultant to the Public Health Service's National Center for Chronic Disease Control.

Audiometers are machines used to test hearing. The operator can adjust both pitch and volume of test-sounds to find the patient's threshold of hearing. But if the machine is out of calibration—that is, if the sound levels it produces do not correspond accurately to the readings on its dials—the test is likely to be worthless.

In the Public Health Service test program, conducted at University of North Carolina's audiometric calibration center, all of the machines were out of calibration: some "slightly," most "grossly." Some were graded completely "inoperable," even though they were in use, the study found.

All of the machines had been in use in North Carolina, but Dr. Stewart said the results of the survey were so uniformly bad as to indicate that the same kind of trouble almost certainly exists elsewhere too.

Potentially dangerous infections of the middle ear may be missed by inaccurate audiometer tests, Dr. Stewart said. Many children with normal hearing acuity might be falsely labeled as impaired hearing cases, he added. This could cause needless trouble, expense and emotional upset for the entire family.

Even more important, the public health specialist said, audiometer tests are among the key factors used by year specialists in judging which patients do and which do not need surgery.

Nobel Prize Winner Killed; Struck by Train

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
DURBAN, South Africa — Chief Albert Lutulu, the 1960 winner of the Nobel Peace Prize and former leader of the banned African National Congress, died in the hospital at Stanger, 40 miles from here yesterday, after being struck by a freight train.

The 68-year-old Lutulu, restricted by the South Africa government to a specified area near his home, was fatally injured while walking across a narrow bridge intended only for railway trains and which had no pedestrian path.

It is believed he was taking a short cut between his home and the general store which he runs nearby. The train stopped and the crew summoned help. He was taken by ambulance to Stanger for an emergency operation for severe head and internal injuries. He was beyond help by the time a neurosurgeon, rushed in from Durban, arrived.

Mood is Somber at 'Black Power' Meet

By DON MCKEE

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Black Power delegates at a national unity conference reflected yesterday a somber mood of growing Negro alienation from white society and an overriding desire to develop workable, self-help programs.

Nearly 600 participants in the all-Negro conference met in closed workshops. Spokesmen said they expected Adam Clayton Powell, the deposed New York congressman, to appear at the meeting.

Powell, honorary chairman of the Black Power conference which he had a leading part in organizing, had been reported en route from Miami. But it was reported later that he was remaining at his Bahamas retreat and would hold a news conference there Saturday.

Delegates, drawn from a wide range of Negro views, worked in a strictly business atmosphere. Outside the sessions, interviews, casual talk and news conferences, some participants voiced anger, bitterness and distrust of white America.

"It's too late, too late to remedy the racial situation in this country," said a well-known delegate, asking his name be withheld. The conference formally voted to exclude whites, including newsmen, Thursday night and called on participants to refuse individual interviews.

The delegate said racial alienation had gone past "that point of no return" and the future holds more violence, perhaps guerrilla-type actions by some of the new "revolutionaries."

Black nationalist Ron Karenga of Los Angeles told the conference's opening session, "Everybody knows white's a devil, the question is, what are you going to do about it?"

In the workshops, however, the dominant concern was how to develop positive, workable programs and involve the nation's Negroes in a strong, united movement to better their lot.

One session turned into a discussion of organizing to "fight political and police pressures." There was considerable criticism of existing Negro leadership in city slums, with emphasis on the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"There are too many old leaders trying to stay on and too many young leaders hustling to get ahead," one delegate said. Another man said Newark's Negroes, about one-half of the city's 400,000 population had a chance to elect a mayor last year but were not organized.

"City Hall could have been two-thirds black," he said. Ten judges working in temporary courtrooms processed bail applications for the remainder of more than 1,000 persons arrested during Newark's five-day siege of Negro rioting that ended Monday.

Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio's office announced that he would meet next Monday in Newark with Sargent Shriver, director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. Shriver will look into charges that the local anti-poverty agency, United Community Corp., contributed to the violence.

The agency's executive director, William K. Wolfe, resigned Thursday night for "personal reasons." Newark police director Dominick A. Spina had complained to Shriver's office in May that UCC was creating conditions for riot and anarchy. UCC officials denied the charge.

Pa. Law on Women's Sentences Attacked

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state's 54-year-old law which spells out procedures for the sentencing of women criminals came under sharp attack yesterday from a Lycoming County Democratic legislator.

Rep. Robert C. Wise of Williamsport complained that the so-called Muncy Act of 1913, named after the women's State Correctional Institution at Muncy, discriminates against the female offender.

Equipped with research to support his position, Wise declared that because of the sentencing procedures specified in the law, women criminals are forced to serve longer terms than their male counterparts.

When a male criminal is sentenced, Wise noted, judges fix minimum and maximum sentences after considering all factors surrounding the crimes. But the jurists have no option in the case of females convicted of the same crimes. They must sentence them to an indefinite term not to exceed the maximum for the offenses.

Only the authorities at Muncy can then determine when a woman should be released prior to serving the full maximum.

In actuality, Wise said, this results in a woman serving as much as a year and one-half more than a man convicted of the same crime under similar conditions.

The two-term lawmaker said his only purpose in calling for reform of the Muncy Act is to make women sentencing practices conform with those of male convicts.

The issue crosses party lines. Wise credited Williamsport attorney Allen E. Ertel with researching the practical effect of the 53-year-old law.

Waiter at Top Pentagon Mess Has Leprosy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Filipino waiter in Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's mess has been found to have leprosy, the Pentagon's health chief said yesterday.

However, "the possibility of any of you contracting this disease approaches zero," Dr. Shirley C. Fisk told the top officials who eat in the dining mess.

Some 85 senior Pentagon officials eat in the mess, which is on the third floor of the Pentagon.

Fisk, deputy assistant secretary of Defense for health and medical matters, said in his memorandum that "within the past few days a case of leprosy has been diagnosed in one of our mess attendants."

A Pentagon spokesman said the mess attendant is a Filipino Navy enlisted man with 22 years of Navy service. He was not identified.

Ertel happens to be the Democratic candidate for district attorney in Lycoming County.

But when the constitutionality of the law was challenged before the State Superior Court, Republican Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter of Philadelphia joined in the position.

Specter said in his brief to the court:

"The Muncy Act was enacted in 1913 or to establishment of equal rights for women in the United States. Women were still denied the vote. The working woman was highly suspect. "There was widespread belief that women were generally inferior and did not possess the moral fibre and strength of men. It was in this context that some penologists advanced the theory that underlies the Muncy Act."

Legislature To Consider Auto Safety

HARRISBURG (AP) — Bipartisan legislation that resulted from a year-long study by an automotive safety task force was introduced in the House yesterday.

Bills may be filed even though the chamber is not in session. The task force was named by the Joint State Government Commission, research arm of the legislature.

The proposed legislation would provide for: —Semi-annual vehicle inspection based on rotating quarterly periods, effective in 1969.

—Inspection of all used cars before resale to individuals.

—Increased fines for violations of inspection regulations.

—Placing responsibility on proprietors of inspection stations for their employees.

—Special additional license requirements for operating buses, trucks and motorcycles.

Changes in Pennsylvania law to conform with the Federal automotive Vehicle Safety Act.

—Adoption of standards established by the Vehicle Equipment Safety Commission, composed of 44 states.

—Prohibition against motorcycles traveling more than two abreast except for passing.

—Mandatory turn signals, special head lamps and reflectors for all motorcycles.

Sewage Regulations Are Made Stricter

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Sanitary Water Board directed the Health Department yesterday to draft revised rules and regulations upgrading the treatment of municipal sewage wastes which are discharged into streams.

The new regulations would require that at least secondary degree of treatment be provided except in cases where the streams already have been polluted by acid mine drainage.

Don't Look Now, But . . .

The All-Star break may indicate the midway point in the Major League baseball season, but it also means that football is just around the corner. If you don't believe it, take a look at the magazine rack at your news stand this week.

The pro gridders are in camp and some rookies have already been cut. Pennsylvania high schools open practice in less than a month, officially, that is, and the colleges won't be too far behind.

Over the years, we've found a Street and Smith publication "COLLEGE FOOTBALL" to be most informative and complete for a pre-season look at what to expect on the collegiate scene.

In it's 27th year, the magazine predicts the order of finish of the nation's top 15 teams, offers an All-American candidates checklist, lists the schedule of all major and most small colleges and gives a description of each team by section (East, Midwest, etc) and conference.

Who's Number One? Who else, the "Fighting Irish."

Alabama is picked as runner-up to Ara's Assassins, with Michigan State slipping to 10th. Army is the only Eastern team on the list in ninth place.

There are a few returnees on the potential All-America roster, including a host of big-name quarterbacks. Gary Beban of UCLA, "Super Bill" Bradley of Texas, Notre Dame's Terry Hanratty, Ken "Snake" Stabler of Alabama and Tennessee's Dewey Warren are all signal callers who gained a reputation last season.

The halfback list is undistinguished, with only Georgia Tech's Lenny Snow carrying an impressive string of press clippings into the '67 season.

Larry Csonka of Syracuse and Michigan State's Bob Apisa should be the strongest contenders for the first team fullback slot, and Jim Seymour of the Irish heads the end candidates, with Penn State's Ted Kwalick as a possibility.

Familiar names among the linemen include ND's Kevin Hardy, Ron Yary of Southern Cal and Wayne Meylan of Nebraska. Arizona State's Curley Culp and Granville Liggins of Oklahoma, both NCAA heavyweight wrestlers are given a shot at the guard posts.

Conference champions, picked by scribes who are veterans in covering the college grid scene in their respective sections of the country, include Purdue in the Big Ten, Princeton in the Ivy League, Texas in the Southwest, Colorado in the Big Eight and USC in the Pacific Eight.

Penn State follows Army on the list of Eastern independents, with Syracuse and Navy trailing. Pitt, still building under Dave Hart, is number seven.

Kane's Tim Montgomery and John Kulka are named as probable starters for the Nittany Lions, with ex-Warrenite Terry Scalise having a chance as signal-caller if first stringer Tom Sherman falters.

In the Pennsylvania State Colleges Football Conference, Clarion is rated best in the Western Division, with West Chester tops in the East. Edinboro and Slippery Rock are expected to finish near the bottom of the ladder.

Kent State gets the nod as the probable champion in the Mid-American conference, with the nation's second leading rusher, Don Fitzgerald, returning at fullback.

Irish Rebuilding?

At Notre Dame, Parseghian— it says here— is faced with somewhat of a rebuilding job. The Irish lost 10 starters to graduation, including Nick Eddy and Alan Page, but there are a few old hands left to keep them on top.

One strong point is at quarterback, where Hanratty and Coley O'Brien give Parseghian experienced quarterbacking for the first time in his four years at ND. Seymour heads a solid end corps that includes 6-5, 228-pound junior George Kunz and Paul Snow, brother of ex-Irish All-America Jack Snow.

Bob "Rocky" Bleier, another veteran, will handle most of the ball-carrying load. Bob Gladioux and Ron Dushney have looked good in spring drills and will probably complete the backfield.

Hardy is the biggest attraction on the defensive line that includes former Erie Prep star Mike McCoy (6-5, 270). The Irish "Front Four," by the way, could be bigger than the Green Bay Packers' unit.

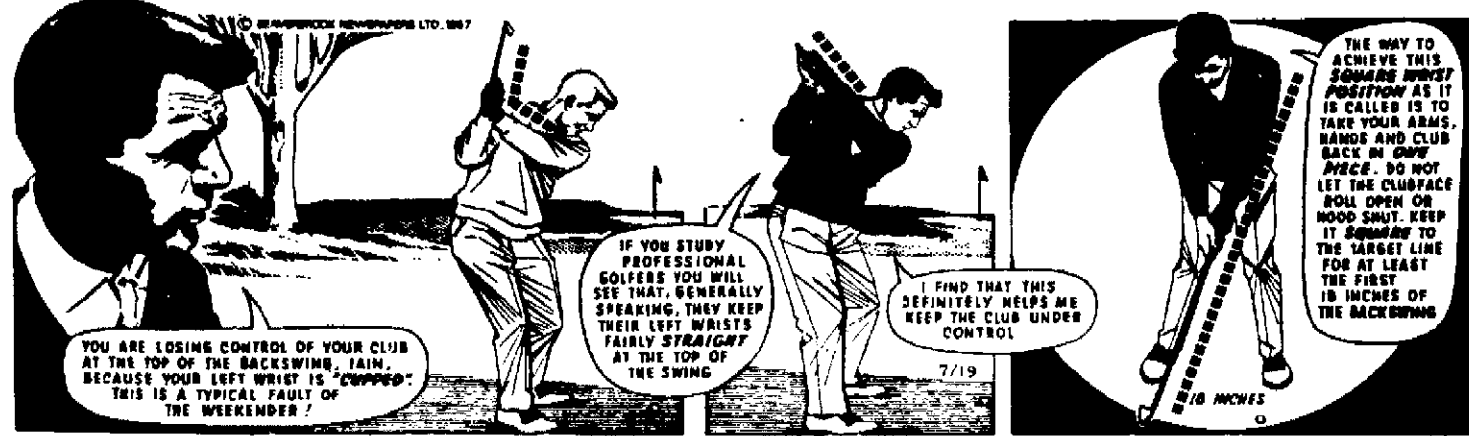

In other words, don't bet against the Irish.

STEELE SHAVINGS— If the name "Bobby Duhon" doesn't ring a bell, it's no fault of the Tulane University public relations department. Duhon, a 190-pound running and passing quarterback, was the sole subject of a brochure the "Green Wave" mass mailed to sports editors all over the country a month or so ago.

It was the biggest single promotion we've ever seen for an individual player and if Duhon doesn't make a few All-America lists a couple P.R. men at Tulane will be more than a little red-faced.

Robert H. Shaw, a graduate of Clarion State College, will be an assistant grid coach at Bucknell University this fall. Shaw leaves a head coaching job at Niles-McKinley, Ohio High School, where he posted a 16-2-2 mark in two seasons.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS:

NICKLAUS MISSES PUTTS, FADES TO 75

Nine-Birdie Round Boosts Tommy Aaron to Four-Stroke PGA Lead

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Title-starved Tommy Aaron, without a victory in seven years as a pro, exploded nine birdies—eight of them in the space of 10 holes—and somersaulted over golf's glamour boys into a four-stroke lead yesterday at the halfway point of the PGA championships.

The 6-1, 180 pound former Walker Cup star from Gainesville, Ga., also had a phenomenal string of ten 3s, five in a row, on his card in shooting a course record 65 for a 36-hole score of 135.

As both dark-horse Dave Hill, the first round leader, and favorite Jack Nicklaus faded in the sweltering 90-degree heat, Aaron leaped four shots ahead of a trio including first round leader Dave Hill, Dan Sikes and long-shot Don Bies, a 29-year-old assistant teaching pro from Seattle, tied at 139.

The "white fang"—the borrowed, white-headed putter that carried him to the U.S. Open crown last month—deserted Nicklaus, whose opening 67 had put him only a shot back of Hill's pace setting 66.

Jack three-putted the first hole from 15 feet, missed a number of makeable putts for pars and birdies and finished with a three-over-par 75 for 142.

That put him seven strokes back of the lead going into the climactic final two rounds today and tomorrow.

Today's third round will be televised by ABC from 7 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Tomorrow's final will be aired for two hours starting at 7 p.m. EDT.

Arnold Palmer, who is bidding for the PGA crown he's never won, remained in contention with a 71 for 141, but he wasn't a happy man.

"The course lost all its character today," he complained. "It was too dry out there. The ball is going so far, you can't control it. I was hitting three-woods off the tee to keep from going through the fairways and I still was going too far."

Sikes almost collapsed at the 13th hole, and emergency oxygen was rushed to him. He recovered enough to birdie the 14th and 17th and finished with a 70, but he had to receive additional treatment in the men's locker room.

"I was tapped out—I don't know when I ever felt so bad," he said afterward.

Bies shot a steady 70—including three birdies and a single bogey—before the 7,436 yard, par 72 Columbine course was drenched with sizzling 90-degree heat and sapping humidity.

Hill, with four bogeys on his card, sank a 25-foot putt on the 16th and finished with a 73.

"I was beating the high grass again today," Hill lamented, speaking of his numerous excursions into the high rough. "I'm playing like a four-handicapper."

Instead, young Chuck Shreve will probably get the nod for the Fordmen, a hard-throwing right-hander, Shreve is 10-0 in the circuit, so he too is about due for some rough handling.

Shreve started the opener of the Memorial Day twinbill against Beverage, but lasted only two innings as the locals knocked him out in the third on a leadoff homer by Steve Hudlock. Jim Munton's double and three straight walks. The Fordmen later got him off the hook by going ahead in the fifth, then losing 12-7.

Left-hander Scot Melville will start on the hill for Beverage, with veteran Guy Conti completing the battery. Melville is also undefeated in league play at 4-0 and pitched a strong game against Security-Peoples last time out.

Another individual duel, for the loop battling lead, will be waged between Ferraro's Larry Blake and Ken Magown and Hudlock of the Beverage-men. The local pair had been gaining ground on league-leading Strubbe until Thursday's game, when the Fordmen's center fielder went 3-for-4 at the plate.

Ferraro has an advantage, it's in the inactivity of the Beverage Club. The locals haven't played a full game since July 3, when they swept a twinbill from Biller Tires. A scheduled game last weekend against Ferraro was called off by the Grand club because of wet grounds and rain halted an exhibition game Wednesday between the locals and Corry Keystone.

Win, lose or draw today, Beverage will have to concentrate on second half action again tomorrow. Koehler Beer, the loop's cellar-dweller, makes the trip here for a doubleheader. The opener at War Memorial Field is slated to get under way at 1 p.m.

Lincoln, acquired from San Diego, and Powell and Flores, brought here from Oakland, have never played for the Bills although each is expected to figure strongly in Buffalo's game this year.

The player dissatisfaction began Thursday when the six, plus tight end Charley Ferguson and running back Dobby Burnett, refused to practice because they had not signed 1967 contracts.

Later in the day, Ferguson came to terms.

Burnett, who had a two-year contract and indicated he wanted a new pact, reached an agreement yesterday.

Collier told the players they would be fined for each work-out they missed. The amount was not announced but it was believed the assessment would be $50 for each missed session. Burnett was fined for missing Thursday's drill.

"We are available to negotiate with them 24 hours a day," he said. "Whenever they want to talk, we'll talk with them."

TEXAS JUDGE RULES:

Cokes-Harris Fight On for Monday Nite

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Curtis Cokes-Cypsy Joe Harris world welterweight championship fight will be held Monday night as scheduled, Kenneth Hayles, promoter for the Greater Dallas Sports Association said last night.

Hayles called a news conference following a decision by a district judge in Austin returning his promoter's license to him and ordering the fight to be held. The order set aside a ruling Wednesday by State Boxing Commissioner Charles King, who suspended the promoter's license and ruled the fight was not to be held because of irregularities in promoting the bout. Phil Burleson, attorney for the promoter, said the Austin ruling allowed the fight to be held as scheduled and that King, the state commissioner who was not in Austin to hear about the results of the court proceedings, did not have to be notified in order to make it effective immediately.

Hayles said that he was notifying Harris, who is in Philadelphia, that the fight was on again and that he would expect Cokes, the champion who left yesterday on a fishing trip, to be on hand for the fight.

When asked what the result would be if Cokes did not show up, Burleson said, "We will take that up Monday."

Burleson said the contracts for the fight had been approved and there was nothing in the way of holding the 15-round fight in which Cokes will defend his championship for the third time.

Hayles said the fight would be televised in color by TV Sports, Inc., of New York and that he didn't think that the uncertainty of the fight being held as result of the legal manipulations would hamper the crowd in any way.

JUST A FRIENDLY DISCUSSION

One of several arguments in Thursday's game between the Chicago Cubs and Atlanta Braves is going strong in the fourth inning as Braves Manager Bill Hitchcock holds back catcher Joe Torre, shown going after umpire Bob Engel. The action started when Cub pitcher Don Kessinger grounded to first baseman Tito Francona

Protest Not Allowed, Leo Mad, Says Pics Don't Lie

CHICAGO (AP) — It didn't take long for Manager Leo Durocher of the Chicago Cubs to learn yesterday that his protest in Thursday's 2-1 loss to Atlanta was disallowed by President Warren Giles of the National League.

Upon arriving at the ball park, Durocher found a telegram from Giles saying that the protest was disallowed because the dispute boiled down to being a decision based on the judgment of an umpire and thereby not subject to protest.

Durocher had to accept the decision but not without a loud cry. "I wonder if he even read my protest," said Durocher. "All he refers to is what Pryor (Umpire Paul Pryor) told him. Look at these pictures, they tell the story."

Durocher then produced a sequence of pictures in which it appeared that Atlanta catcher Joe Torre took a position up the line to field a thrown ball, knocked base runner Glenn Beckert aside, and then resumed his previous field position to catch a ball thrown by shortstop Dennis Menke.

Beckert, who was trying to score the tying run from third base, then scrambled around.

Orioles Recall Gene Brabender

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles announced yesterday that pitcher Gene Brabender has been recalled from the Rochester Red Wings of the International League.

The 25-year-old right-hander, who played his rookie season with the Orioles in 1966, is due to report today.

At Rochester, Brabender posted an 8-6 record, with six complete games in 17 starts, 85 strikeouts in 116 innings and a 2.77 earned run average.

The Orioles said they would announce late last night, who would be removed from the roster to make room for Brabender.

May Hurt, Bucs Recall Catcher

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates placed injured catcher Jerry May on the disabled list last night and recalled catcher Manuel Sanguillen from Columbus of the International League.

May suffered a fractured index finger on his right hand Wednesday night.

Sanguillen, who hit .267 with nine homers in 65 games at Columbus, is expected to join the Pirates today.

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL ROUNDUP:

Buccos Rip Astros, 9-1; ChiSox End Loss Streak

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Veale fired a three-hitter for his first complete game in 16 starts and Bill Mazeroski slugged three hits guiding the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 9-1 victory over Houston last night.

Veale 11-4, whose last complete game was on April 28, struck out 10 and walked just three compared to 15 walks he yielded in his last two starts.

The Astros ruined Veale's shutout bid in the ninth when Jim Wynn reached first on an error by Maury Wills, took third on Rusty Staub's double and scored on an infield out.

Mazeroski scored twice and drove in another run with a double that climaxed a four-run seventh-inning explosion.

Manny Mota slamin' his third homer in the second inning and tripled home Mazeroski in the sixth.

Don Clendenen's double, singles by Mazeroski and Jim Pagararon and a wild pitch accounted for two runs in the fourth.

Roberto Clemente, making his first appearance after missing four games because of a sore knee, drilled a two-run triple in the seventh.

Staub, who also had an infield single in the fourth, ran his batting streak to 20 games.

ChiSox-Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Wayne Causey drove in two runs with a triple and single and scored a third, leading the Chicago White Sox to a 5-4 victory over Kansas City last night that ended their three-game losing streak.

Wilbur Wood, a relief specialist turned starting pitcher, checked the A's on six hits before giving way to knuckleballer Howie Wilhelm in the eighth and picked up his second victory in as many decisions this season.

The 25-year-old left-hander beat the A's 5-1 last Sunday in his first start.

Wilhelm was touched for two runs in the ninth on three singles and a wild pitch before Bob Locker came on to get the last out.

After Don Buford beat out a bunt in the fifth inning, Causey tripled to right, snapping a 1-1 tie, and scored on a single by Pete Ward.

Ken Berry doubled in the sixth and came home on Walt Williams' single, giving the Sox a 4-1 edge, and they added what turned out to be the winning run in the ninth on a single by Williams, a sacrifice bunt and Causey's single to center.

Braves-Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Henry Aaron lashed a two-run home run and Clete Boyer hit a bases-empty shot in the fourth inning as the Atlanta Braves tumbled to the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1 last night.

McLean left after the first two batters in the eighth singled and Marshall gave up a two-run double to Roy White. But Mickey Mantle struck out for the fourth time, Joe Pepitone grounded out and Marshall struck out Tom Tresh to end the threat.

Horton, suffering all season from a chronic achilles tendon injury to his left heel, left the game for a pinch-runner in the fifth after driving home Don Wert from first base with a 370-foot single.

Horton drove in his first run in the three-run Detroit third with a hit after Dick McAuliffe beat out a bunt and took second on an infield grounder. Bill Freehan's double scored Horton and Mickey Stanley brought home Freehan with a single.

Looser Steve Barber, 5-11, gave up 12 hits before leaving in the fifth.

Cubs-Giants

CHICAGO (AP) — Al Spangler scored from second base on Willie McCovey's throwing error in the 12th inning, giving the Chicago Cubs a 5-4 victory over San Francisco yesterday.

Spangler drew a leadoff walk in the 12th and was sacrificed to second by Randy Hundley. Adolfo Phillips was walked intentionally before John Stephenson, batting for pitcher Cal Koonce, grounded to first baseman McCovey, whose throw to second for an attempted force sailed into left field as Spangler raced home with the winning run.

Koonce, the fifth Chicago pitcher, received credit for the victory while Ron Herbel, the sixth San Francisco hurler, took the loss.

Reds-Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gary Sutherland's two-out single in the eighth inning drove in a pair of unearned runs that carried the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-3 victory over Cincinnati last night.

Sutherland's first hit since June 28 erased a 3-2 deficit and Tony Taylor followed with a run-scoring infield single as the Phillies handed the Reds their third straight loss.

The Phils came from behind after an error by shortstop Tommy Helms kept the eighth inning rally alive.

Lock walked in the second inning, stole second and continued to third on a throwing error by starting catcher Don Pavletich before scoring the game's first run on an infield out. The Reds tied it in the fourth on Pete Rose's single and a triple by Art Shamsky.

Pinson doubled in the sixth, stole third and scored on an infield hit by Tony Perez, sending the Reds ahead 2-1, but the Phils pulled even in the seventh on a walk to Taylor, a single by Cookie Rojas and a delayed double steal.

DETROIT (AP) — Ailing Willie Horton slammed three hits in five innings driving in two runs and scoring one as the Detroit Tigers handed the New

Jimmy Foxx Dead, Ex-Diamond Great

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jimmy Foxx, the famed Double X, who ranked among baseball's greatest home run hitters, died yesterday. He was 59.

Foxx, who helped the old Philadelphia Athletics to a dominance of the game in the early 1930s, retired in 1947 with 534 major league home runs — second only to Babe Ruth until Willie Mays passed him last year.

Foxx, a muscular, right-handed batter who sometimes was called The Beast, was voted into baseball's Hall of Fame in 1951. He was a first baseman.

Foxx, who had been in financial straits in his later life, became ill Friday at the home of his brother, Sam, with whom he lived.

Sheriff's detective Walter Seaward said the brother told him Foxx had a heart condition, an autopsy will be performed to determine the exact cause of death.

Foxx, born in Sudlersville, Md., Oct. 22, 1907, broke in with the Athletics—then managed by Connie Mack—in 1925. He also played with the Boston Red Sox, before winding up his career with the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies in 1945.

He finished with a lifetime batting average of .325 and twice led the American League in hitting, at .356 in 1933 and .349 in 1938.

But it was as a slugger, as a long ball hitter, the big guy won his greatest fame. He led the American League in home runs four times, 58 in 1932, 48 in 1933, 36 in 1935 and 35 in 1939.

And in 1933, he won baseball's "Most Valuable Player" award.

In the opener, Valentine drove in one run with a two-out single in the first inning and delivered two more with a two-out single in the fifth. But the winning run scored in the eighth when reliever Eddie Fisher uncorked a wild pitch after issuing an intentional walk that filled the bases.

Red Sox-Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Joe Foy cracked a three-run homer in the third inning, powering Boston to its seventh straight victory as the Red Sox beat Cleveland 6-2 last night.

Foy's 14th homer, off Luis Tiant, followed a single by Mike Andrews and a walk and sent Boston ahead 4-0 after Tony Conigliaro doubled and scored on George Scott's single in the second.

Darrell Brandon, 4-8, who doubled and scored the last Boston run on a wild pitch in the seventh, stopped the Indians on eight hits, one of them Leon Wagner's 14th homer with one out in the eighth.

The other Boston run came in the fourth off Steve Bailey when Reggie Smith singled and scored on Scott's double.

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's appointment of Simon F. McHugh, who married a White House secretary, to a $300-a-week job yesterday to a demand that Congress abolish the Subversive Activities Control Board.

The apparent theory: If you can't take the man out of the job, take the job out from under the man.

The abolition call came from Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who said the board McHugh joined Monday—with Senate approval—as “a ridiculous extravagance.”

The board has virtually nothing to do, Proxmire said. “The job itself is a sinecure,” he said, “the compensation of $26,000 is for doing little or nothing, the board had its last formal meeting some six months ago.”

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., tried a different approach. He proposed that the Senate ask the White House to return McHugh's confirmation papers, then reconsider its action in approving the appointment. “This whole thing has been rushed,” Williams said.

Neither his motion nor the bill proposed by Proxmire appeared to have much chance of Senate adoption. But the uproar could spell trouble for the Subversive Activities Control Board when the Senate Appropriations Committee takes up a bill containing its allowance for the year ahead.

1967 Treasurer's Tax Sale Of Seated Lands For Taxes For The Year 1965

IN COMPLIANCE with and by virtue of the authority vested in me, the undersigned Treasurer of Warren County by the several Acts of General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and specifically the Act approved May 29, 1931, P.L. 280, as amended and supplemented, authorizing and empowering the County Treasurer to sell, at public sale, all seated lands upon which taxes levied are delinquent and remain unpaid, and fixing penalties, terms of sale, etc., I, the said Treasurer of Warren County, will sell at public sale the following properties as hereinafter set forth.

THE PURPOSE of the said sale, is to enforce the collection of delinquent taxes, penalties, interest and costs thereon as the said taxes are returned for the year 1965. The said sale will be held at the Court House in the Borough of Warren, Warren County, Pennsylvania on:

MONDAY, AUGUST 10, 1967 AT 9:00 A. M. EDST

TERMS OF SALE: As soon as the property is struck down the purchaser shall pay (I) the amount of the purchase money, or (II) such part of the purchase money as may be necessary to pay all taxes, except such taxes as have heretofore been filed as liens in the office of the Prothonotary and all interest and costs. In case said amount is not forthwith paid after the property is struck down the sale will be voided and the property immediately put up again for sale by the said Treasurer. In the event the purchaser fails to later make complete settlement at the time and in the manner provided for in said Act of May 29, 1931, P.L. 280, as amended and supplemented, any money paid under the terms of this sale will be forfeited and will be disposed of the same as purchase money. After the sale of the property of lands has been confirmed by the Court, where the bid exceeds the taxes, interest and costs, as aforesaid, the purchaser will make and execute to the said Treasurer, for the use of the persons entitled to a bond for the surplus money that may remain after satisfying the paying of all taxes, interest and costs.

TAKE NOTICE all persons, owners or reputed owners, tenants or any person claiming an interest in the following described lots or tracts of land:

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that your said property situated in the Borough or Township, as hereinafter described has been returned for non payment of taxes for the year 1965, and unless such taxes, interest and cost are paid before Monday, the Seventh Day of August, 1967, at 9 o'clock A. M. Eastern Daylight Savings Time (EDST) of said day, the said premises will be sold as set forth.

Neighborhood Youth Corps workers at work in a neighborhood. Project keeps 50 county high school students busy.

PROJECT EMPLOYS 50 TEENAGERS

Idle Hands Are Busy in Youth Corps

By TOM CURTIN

A total of 50 Warren and Forest County high school students, between the ages of 16 and 21 are working this summer on improvement projects for non-profit organizations at 14 different sites in the two county area.

The boys and girls are part of the national Neighborhood Youth Corps which is one of the programs under the Economic Opportunity Act. The Youth Corps is designed to give low-income young people an opportunity to obtain paid work experience during their summer vacation months. The students work up to 32 hours each week at the minimum wage of $1.25 per hour. The program is designed to accustom the young people to work discipline while doing useful community projects that would generally be left undone. One stipulation is put on the enrollees, and that is they must be returning to high school in September.

The Warren-Forest County project is part of one drawn up by the Archbishop's Commission for Economic Opportunity of the Diocese of Erie. The local area project has been granted 70 jobs slots of which 50 have been filled and applicants are being processed for the remaining 20. The summer project began on June 19 and will continue through August 26.

Money for the Youth Corps is provided 90 per cent by the federal government and the remaining 10 per cent is furnished by the local Office of Economic Opportunity or agencies sponsoring the individual work sites. This 10 per cent can be provided "in kind" where a monetary value is placed on equipment and materials used as well as the time of the work site supervisor or overseer which is also supplied by the employer. The supervisor may be a custodian, a librarian, office secretary, job foreman, an interested citizen, or anyone else who would normally be employed at the work sites.

The young people working this summer in the area project fall into four categories of occupational types: librarian aide, clerk-typist aide, groundskeeper aide and custodian aide. Work crews may be found doing such things as: cleaning schools, repairing township roads and streets, doing clean-up work around the Kinzua Dam, cutting brush and eliminating fire hazards around area communities, doing school office work, summer librarians and numerous other tasks. Some of the projects sponsors include: township supervisors, schools, the Corps of Engineers and the U.S. Marine Corps recruiting office in Warren.

Director of the Youth Corps program is James Dunn, a teacher, from Youngsville. Mr. Dunn's job is to find and process applicants, assign them to work sites, take care of personnel problems, make out the payroll and handle the mountain of paperwork which accompanies any government project such as this one.

The enthusiasm and spirit of the youths as they do their work is rewarding to see. Some of this has rubbed off on community citizens and they too have gone about improving their properties in keeping with the trend of the town. The amount of work accomplished by these youngsters is overwhelming and is also reassuring to older critics of the present young generation.

Beginning in April the Warren-Forest Economic Opportunity Council administered an in-school program which was also backed by the Erie Diocese. During that time 32 boys and girls worked after school and weekends on job sites at West Forest School in Tionesta, East Hickory and Endeavor, East Forest School at Marienville, Tidioute library, Eisenhower School, Brokenstraw Township, Sheffield School system, Warren Area High School, Pine Grove Township, Clarendon Borough and the U.S. Marine Recruiting Office in Warren. The 32 enrollees worked a total of approximately 2,290 hours.

It would be impossible in an article such as this to describe all the work accomplished. However, some of the projects included: repairing and remodeling of a community center building in Endeavor. It is hoped a part-time barber and a library will soon be established there as well as a lumbering museum. In Marienville a group of workers assisted in the spring fish stocking program, and in Youngsville, Youth Corps workers prepared the swimming pool and recreational area for summer use. The Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department building was painted and repaired by workers there.

The 32 boys and 18 girls working in this summer's program are at the following fourteen sites in Warren and Forest Counties: East Forest School in Marienville, Sheffield High School, Warren Area High School, Youngs-ville High School, Eisenhower High School, Clarendon Borough, U.S. Marine recruiter's office in Warren, Head Start school program in the Warren-Forest Economic Opportunity office in Warren, U.S. Forest Service in Warren, U.S. Forest Service at Buckaloons, Eldred Township, Freehold Township, Bear Lake Borough and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at the Kinzua Dam.

The previous two summers Warren County has had a Youth Corps project at Chapman Dam State Park under the administration of the State YMCA. There a crew of about 14 boys did park maintenance work for 10 weeks both years.

If you have noticed an improvement in the scenery of the area chances are a great deal of it has resulted from the effort of Youth Corps boys and girls doing the jobs that just don't get done. This is one program taxpayers can be assured they are getting more than their money's worth from. In addition many community morales have been lifted by the model these young people have established.

The Cover

Though many Warren County youths have found summer employment, there are still not enough jobs to go around. This parking-meter lounge is the target of the President's Youth Opportunity campaign, designed to keep idle hands and idle minds busy. Neighborhood Youth Corps (see story this page) and personal initiative (see Pages B-10, 11) help meet this goal.

Supporting Scripture:
Matthew 10:16-39

Text: "And a man's foes shall be they of his own household." Mat. 10:36

How often do we try to put the blame on others for the unhappiness, the chaos, the breakdown in family circles, that we find surrounding us on every hand. We, sometimes, would blame the leaders of our country, or perhaps we would blame the leaders of our churches, or maybe we would blame our in-laws for the trouble we are in. There is, however, an area where we must take a very close scrutiny. May we pause for a few moments and see just where this may lead us.

First, we find that the worst enemies are those that are within. Any individual who has had military service knows the emphasis that is placed upon keeping a tight security surrounding a vital nerve center of operations for a military objective. This is done not only for keeping OUT unwanted 'guests,' but also for keeping WITHIN those that are already there.

There are several UNWANTED GUESTS in the national household. There are the judges who perhaps misapply the law for selfish reason. There might be the high official, who accepts a bribe (recall the case at hand a few years ago); there might be the politician who uses his influence to liberate those who have been committed to an institution for their debt to society incurred by the transgression of God's Law as well as the law of man. There might be also, the business man who crushes a weak opponent or oppresses his employees so as to make a larger bank account, or for some other personal gain. These are the real foes of America, today. Can our young men and women aspire to become Godly leaders in our present day society where there is so much sin and degradation on every hand? Can our future leaders be inspired by our elected officials of today to be in harmony with the motto of our great Country "IN GOD WE TRUST," which is inscribed upon the coinage of our land? We would pray that the spiritual tone of our land shall return to the great foundation that was laid for us by our founding forefathers.

Secondly, the battle is between the forces that tear down and the forces that build up. We are all but 'privates' in the gigantic war between the forces of Christ and the forces of Satan (the devil, Lucifer or the demon); a war that commenced in the Garden of Eden and has been continually waged since Adam and Eve involving mankind. Of course, this war really started when Lucifer wanted to be as great as God and was thrown out of Heaven because of his unwillingness to be content with the status of being an angel. The Word of God tells us that this constant battle will be faced by, and engaged in by all men until the Second Coming of The Lord Jesus Christ upon the earth. When? It is not to be known of men when nor where, but He shall return!

The third area is concerned with weaponry. The greatest weapon that any person can have, the Christ-like life with the indwelling of God, the Holy Spirit. Jesus promised the Holy Spirit to those who would prepare a place in their hearts for Him to dwell. He helps to shed light to overcome the darkness of sin, good overcomes evil, love vanquishes selfishness (See I Corinth. chapter 13); therefore let us TURN ON the light, practice righteousness, and seek the true love of Christ in our lives.

Our victory is assured by God Himself. I would refer you to St. John chapter 16 and read verse 33. Here Jesus is addressing, not only His disciples prior to His death on the Cross, but He is addressing all people of all ages who will accept Him as Lord and Saviour of their souls. Christ is NOT dead, but is very much alive and makes intercession for us as we pray and trust God in our everyday lives. May I also refer you to the first book of John chapter 4 and verse 4.

Our prayer today is that every heart and soul within our families, in our communities, in our state, and within our great country shall have this Victory that overcomes the world. The Victory that is founded in complete obedience and trust in God.

May the Love of God through His Son Jesus Christ and the power and communion of the Holy Spirit be with you all both now and forever more. Amen.

ANALYSIS: WARREN COUNTY

County's Growth Reflected In Northern Areas

By TOM CURTIN

The Pennsylvania State Planning Board, in a recent Times Mirror and Observer article, said Warren County is a growing place with the county population jumping to 50,000 this year.

With this new figure, Warren County is tenth in the state in growth.

Where has this growth been and is it visible?

This growth is readily visible in the number of school expansions about the county, the increase of traffic, the expansion of businesses, the enlarging and improvement of utilities and the scarcity of housing and soaring real estate values. However, when it comes to pinpointing areas in the county where this growth is most dynamic, the problem becomes more involved.

Looking back to the 1960 census we see that Warren County has been growing for the past 27 years. While southern townships have experienced a continued decline in growth since 1950, the northern and central townships, along with the Warren area, all adjacent to Route 6 were the greatest growth areas. But even back in 1940 things were beginning to progress. At that time employment opportunities in the county numbered 12,846, and by 1960 they had increased to 16,040. During this time the greatest expansion of the labor market was brought about by the larger numbers of women entering the local shops and factories. Between 1940 and 1960 the percentage of unemployed decreased from 16.1 per cent to 4.5 per cent.

The 1960 census pointed out the age group constituting the major growth element could be attributed to the large numbers of elderly persons returning to Warren County after retirement. During that year the elderly made up 12.6 per cent of the county population as compared to 9.9 per cent for the state. By 1980 this average has been projected to 14.5 per cent. It would appear then from these statistics that expansion of the Rouse Home and housing for the aging are wise and timely investments for Warren County to be involved in.

In recent years in addition to the numbers of elderly people returning to Warren County there has been a noticeable, but uncharted, increase in the numbers of young people staying in their native county after completing their service and educational obligations. Among these people we would probably find the greatest number of new home builders since it is becoming more and more practical for a young couple to build a new home as to pay nearly the same money for an older one and under shorter financing terms while bearing the burden of needed improvements.

Warren County Planning and Zoning officer Robert Peterson points out the greatest development in the past few years has occurred in Conewango, Pleasant, Mead, Pine Grove, Glade, and Brokenstraw townships as well as Youngsville Borough. For example a drive through Conewango Township would reveal many new homes and new home construction on Jackson Run road, Yankee Bush road and the Hillcrest Development. The same evidence can be easily observed in Pleasant Township where developments such as Newbold, Gigliotti, Petersen and private builders are constantly bringing in new families.

Further evidence can be found of a building boom in the county by checking the estimated values of new homes and home improvements as listed on zoning permit applications from January through the first of July of this year. Here we find Pleasant Township leading with projects valued at $522,000 under way. Some other townships are: Glade with $80,788; Pine Grove with $77,100; Mead with $73,550; Conewango with $70,850 and Elk with $34,000. These are just random samples taken from the six townships and one borough which apply for zoning permits through the county office. Elk, Glade, Pine Grove, Conewango, Mead, and Pleasant townships as well as Clarendon Borough come under the county zoning commission. The other townships and boroughs have their own zoning commissions.

The amount of building and property improvements about the county may again be noted by observing the increase of property values by comparing the 1967 real estate taxes with those for 1966. For example the 1966 taxes for Conewango Township totaled $7,000,155 and the total for 1967 is $7,625,375. Brokenstraw Township was $3,717,935 up this year to $3,852,355; Glade $3,335,030 up to $3,501,965; Mead $2,722,665 up to $2,821,695; Pine Grove $3,205,725 increased to $3,399,045; Pleasant $1,873,535 to $4,113,325. Youngsville Borough $3,668,345 up to $3,714,865; Warren Borough $33,103,885 to $33,630,575 and Sheffield Township had $1,487,070 in 1966 and increased to $3,540,370 in 1967. Every township and borough in the county increased its real estate value in the past year with the exception of Tidoute where a number of old buildings were torn down thus, decreasing the assessed valuation. Warren County has 22,000 parcels of property which are taxed each year. The properties are assessed at 50 per cent of their market value. In addition to the construction of new houses and building improvements the creation of new lots and subdivisions add to the increased property values.

A few years ago, Hillcrest Development wasn't developed

Hints From Heloise Another Plastic Bag Trick

DEAR HELOISE:

When I take my portable radio to the pool, I put it inside a clear plastic bag to keep the sand or water from damaging it.

The bag is large enough so that I can change stations without removing the radio. Sure protects my radio and doesn't interfere with sound at all.

Barbara Carrington

Fancy that? It works like a charm. Thanks to Barbara for this.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

The men in my family like the permanent press pants, but I found they soon wore thin in the seat at the lower end of the pocket where their billfold is carried.

Now when they get new pants, I iron a large piece of shaped iron-on tape on the pocket lining next to the seat of the pants. This tape acts as a cushion for the corners of the billfold. It takes the buffing instead of the material and their pants wear much longer.

Noon Picnic

Luncheon For 10

The Friendly Neighbor Club of Russell met recently with Mrs. Raymond Warner at her home for a noon picnic on Wednesday. Ten members were present, also three guests and five children.

A short business meeting took place after lunch. Several members had been remembered with birthday and anniversary cards. Each child present received a birthday gift from the president, Mrs. Herbert Erickson.

The next meeting will be held on August 2, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Clarence Carlson Jr.

During a fair staged to raise funds for a Walbottle, England, school, two teachers volunteered as targets for wet sponges, tomatoes, etc., tossed by pupils. That's taking a very charitable view of juvenile antics.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

GOALS IN TB

Mortality from pulmonary tuberculosis dropped from 87 to 18 per cent in the last 20 years. Even tho the disease is on the wane, 8,000 Americans died from TB last year demonstrating that we still have a long way to go. Physicians are banking on early detection and finding an effective preventive.

Skin testing in children is one of the most valuable screening tools to find infected and infectious individuals. A positive reaction means that they came into contact with the tubercle bacilli. A positive take does not always indicate active tuberculosis but the possibility exists when a negative test changes to positive. Many of these children are treated for TB even tho the chest X-ray does not show a lesion.

Everyone with a positive skin test should have an annual chest X-ray. Those with a history of tuberculosis should have this done every six months. Most health departments keep extensive files on former patients and insist upon repeated checkups. Full cooperation is needed to eradicate the disease.

Treatment usually involves the major antituberculosis drugs — streptomycin, isoniazid, and para-aminosalicylic acid (PAS), given in combination. Other remedies are used when the causative agents become resistant to "the big three." These antimicrobials deserve most of the credit for the lower death rate and for reducing the duration of the illness. In the past, many years were spent in the sanatorium. Today, the average time is less than 6 months.

Tuberculosis is no respecter of age. It is more common now in adults than in children and 85 per cent who succumb are over 45 years of age. In addition, two-thirds of all TB patients are in this age group.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

A Solemn Nuptial High Mass was celebrated yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in the Friary Chapel of Saint Bonaventure University, Olean, N. Y. United in marriage were Miss Rosanne Guson, daughter of Professor and Mrs. John Guson of 705 West Healey street, Olean, N. Y., and Gregory Nasky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nasky of 105 Center street, Warren.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a floor length A-line gown of white Chantilly lace over English net with a front panel of taffeta under net. The fitted high-rise bodice was lace, scattered with seed pearls, and featured a square scalloped neck line and long tapered lace sleeves ending in points over the wrists. The double panel train of Chantilly lace was scalloped around the entire edge. A double tiara of Queen's lace scattered with seed pearls held her bouffant veil of English silk illusion. She carried an empire cascade arrangement of gardenias, stephanotis and miniature ivy with white ribbons.

Miss Denise Guson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Miriam Guson, another sister of the bride, Miss Kathleen Baker and Miss Jane Nasky, sister of the groom. They were dressed identically in floor length sea-foam color gowns of dotted English net over linen sheath. Their headpieces were daisy crowns securing shoulder circlet veils in seafoam. They carried trinity arrangements of white daisies, gypsophila and Baker fern with white ribbons.

Edward Radigan Jr., of Mt. Sterling, Ohio, was best man. Seating the guests were John Wingerter of Erie, Ronald Loper of Kent, Ohio, and Leonard Bonfanti of Peabody, Massachusetts, all classmates of the groom. A wedding breakfast was held at the Bartlett Country Club following the ceremony.

The bride is a 1967 graduate of D'Youville College. The bridegroom is a member of the Class of 1964 of St. Bonaventure University and a 1967 graduate of the University of Notre Dame Law School. He is presently serving his law clerkship with William Hill, Esq. of Warren.

After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Nasky will be at home at 405 New Holly Apartments, Conewango Avenue, Warren.

TWO BUDDING BALLERINAS will be performing today at Chautauqua in the Chautauqua Dance Company's presentation of Act III Tchaikovsky's beautiful Nutcracker Ballet. The two are Ailene Stolar and Marguerite Stolar, ages 11 and 8 respectively. They are the daughters of Dr. and Mrs. John Stolar of Warren State Hospital.—At such tender ages they do not, naturally, have special roles, but it is nevertheless a very special experience to dance as members of what is known in other ballet companies as the "corps de ballet." In the wintertime the two young dancers study with Darlene Beach in Warren at the Beach Dance Studio; summers they study under the direction of Erle's prima ballerina, Statia Sublette, director of the Chautauqua Dance Company, and head of the department of dance at Chautauqua Institute. The lovely ballet will be danced at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Norton Memorial Hall, along with excerpts from two other ballets. Tickets will be available at the gate.

PITTSFIELD COMMUNITY REUNION is today at 12 noon. Rain or shine. In case of bad weather everyone will just move into the Pittsfield Community House. A varied and delicious selection of food will be enjoyed—Everyone is to bring a family size thirteen and their own table service, and, everyone is welcome to the event at Arnold Park.

THE STEVEN JAMES BROWNS, recently united in marriage in the Emmanuel Baptist Church, Starbrick, by the Rev. Howard Cartwright, were honored at a reception held in the Starbrick Fire Hall. Approximately one hundred and fifty guests were there, to wish the newlyweds the best of everything. Mrs. Brown is the former Mae Peterson, daughter of the Milton Petersons of Sugar Grove, and the groom is the son of the Howard J. Browns of Starbrick. They are now at home to their friends at 2737 Pennsylvania ave. W. ext., Olson's Trailer Park. Aides at the reception were Mrs. Robert Seymour, Mrs. Louise Hoffman, Mrs. Carl Smith and Miss Karen Font. A three tier wedding cake centered the refreshment table. Other parties for the couple were given by Jamesway co-workers, who hosted, a dinner at Mineral Wells; by Mrs. Clarence Westburg and Mrs. Carl Lundgren.

JUST BACK FROM CALIFORNIA are the Rev. and Mrs. Allan F. Hearl of Bethlehem Covenant Church, who went to Mr. Hearl's native state to attend the annual meeting of the denomination in Pasadena, Calif. Afterwards they visited his family in Sacramento. The Hearls' stay in the Golden State was for three weeks, and in that time they swam, spent a day and a night in Santa Barbara, visited the much-litigated Sunset Strip of Los Angeles and its hippies.—The Rev. Hearl observed that it isn't the mini skirts, the beards, or long hair that's so bad, it's their lack of a bowler acquaintance with a bath tub! Then they went to one of the world's most beautiful cities, San Francisco.—There they visited the Haight Asbury section (the Hearls were in the city at the same time as dancers Nureyev and Fonteyn); and Chinatown, the largest settlement of Chinese outside of China itself, where a little humor came their way.—Most of the wares for sale there were made in Japan! Well, they are home now and this weekend are entertaining Mrs. Hearl's uncle, P. Kenneth Peterson Minnesota's Railroad Commissioner, who in 1960 opposed Senator Hubert Humphrey for a seat in the United States Senate.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Now that I have read the letter from the man who wanted a Viking funeral I know I am not crazy. As you will recall, a Viking funeral is when they put the dead person in a boat, set it afire and shove it out to sea.

I am 20 and I want to be buried in a G.T.O., sitting up in the bucket seat with both hands on the wheel. I want a wild combo to play at the funeral so all my friends will be in a happy mood instead of a sad mood, which is what is wrong with most funerals in the first place.

I hope you won't tell me this is against the law because if it is, I will be pretty darned mad. After all, don't people have the right to decide what happens to their own remains?—NILES, ILLINOIS

DEAR NILES: Sorry, but you are going to be pretty darned mad because I must inform you that states have laws telling people what they can and cannot do with their remains. If you want to be buried in a G.T.O., you'll have to do it someplace else, Buddy Boy, because I have checked and it's no dice in Illinois.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you believe in fate or miracles, or could it be just a lucky coincidence that I read your column yesterday morning and it contained the advice that probably saved my son's marriage? This is what happened:

My son was married three months ago to a very lovely girl. Everything was cream and peaches until tonight when he showed up with a suitcase. I said, "What's this all about?" He answered, "Sue and I had a terrible argument and I am spending the night here—maybe several nights."

Then I remembered your column, the one where you said a mother should not let her son or daughter come home once they marry. You said if they have a fight and try to come home, they should be told, "Go to your OWN home, where you belong, and work out your problems."

I told my son he was not welcome, that he was a married man now and that he should go back to his wife and settle things. He was very angry with me, said I had failed him in his hour of need and that I was a rotten mother. I'll admit I cried my eyes out when he left and I wondered if maybe I had made a mistake.

The next morning at 9:30 a.m. my son called from work. He said, "Mother, thank you for sending me home. Sue and I are going to get along just fine from now on. I know now that you were right and I want to thank you for having the guts to send me home."

So, I want to say to you, Ann, thanks a million. You are the one who deserves the credit, not me.—PENNSYLVANIA READER

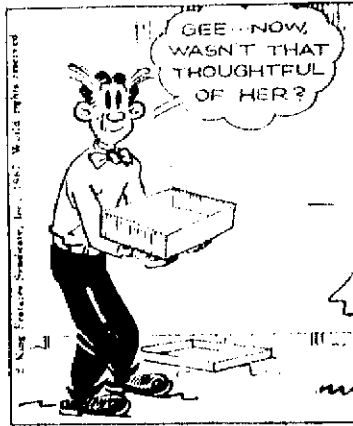

DEAR READER: Thanks for trying to give me the credit, but it is YOU who deserve it. I hand out a lot of advice, and a lot of it is ignored, I am sure. The person who is able to sort out the ideas that make sense to him, and ally them to his own life is the one who is REALLY smart.

CONFIDENTIAL TO NEED HIM: You need him like Johnstown needed more rain. The man was a con artist and he proved it three different times. Forget about him while you still have your health and your looks and a few dollars in the bank.

WEEK'S PREVIEW

There's not much to preview as what is probably the most sterile week of the summer, TV-wise, is just ahead. Only NBC has a special scheduled; this is "Israel: Victory or Else," coming at 6-7:30 p.m. on Chs. 2 and 12 Sunday. As the name indicates, it is a study of Israel's recent victory over the Arab nations. Sportswise, there's the big PGA golf tournament on Chs. 6 and 7 Saturday and Sunday afternoons. And the usual baseball, soccer, and routine sports series.

If you are a devotee of good music in the classical sense and also are fortunate enough to receive Ch. 3, WPSX-TV, don't miss the Sunday evening program. A three-hour performance by the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be presented, starting at 7:30 p.m. The concert comes from Tanglewood, near Boston, where Erich Leinsdorf conducts the Boston Symphony, the Tanglewood Choir, and a distinguished group of soloists in the concert version of Mozart's famous opera, "The Magic Flute."

SEASON PEEKS

"Gentle Ben," a new half-hour adventure series in which a young boy and his constant companion, a giant bear, meet and surmount dangers posed by the wilds in which they live, will make its debut Sunday, Sept. 10, at 7:30 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Dennis Weaver, well-remembered for his role of Chester in "Gunsmoke," stars in the series along with young Clint Howard and Ben, a 650-pound American black bear. Weaver plays a wildlife officer stationed in the Everglades of Florida with his family. Clint Howard, a veteran actor at the age of 8 years, is his son who romps into adventures with the bear.

The boy, Mark, in the course of his exploration of the surrounding wilderness, wanders into dangers posed by the treacherous environs and some visitors to the area. Ben, the bear, guided by his friendship for the boy and his natural instincts, helps lead the youngster to safety.

"Maya," the first television series filmed entirely on location in India, debuts Saturday, Sept. 16, at 7:30 p.m. on NBC-TV. It is an outdoor adventure series based on the MGM movie of the same title. Starring are Jay North and Sajid Khan, two teenagers, one an American boy in India searching for his father and the other an Indian lad who owns an elephant called Maya.

"The Flying Nun" is a new ABC-TV entry set for Thursday, Sept. 7 at 7:30 p.m. It stars Sally Fields who played the title role in ABC's "Gidget" series in 1965. In "The Flying Nun," Sally plays the role of Sister Bertrille at a convent in San Juan.

The comedy series is normally a half-hour one but the premiere program has been extended to one hour in length.

KHRUSHCHEV SHOE

NBC-TV may have gotten the famous Khrushchev shoe on the wrong foot, or put its foot in its mouth or something, as a result of the one-hour documentary, "Khrushchev in Exile: His Opinions and Revelations," shown Saturday night, July 11.

In reprisal for the Khrushchev documentary, the Soviet Novosti press agency postponed for at least one year its cooperation in the production of an NBC News documentary on prisons and another NBC documentary is being reconsidered. The Khrushchev show was made without the help of Novosti.

The Communist bloc withdrew (prior to the Khrushchev program) from participation in the "Our World" telecast which had been scheduled for June 25. Then a 10-week U.S. tour by a company of Soviet dancers, including stars of the Bolshoi ballet, was canceled.

ABC-TV has been negotiating for a documentary on the Red Army and CBS also has some projects under negotiation. National Educational Television has been trying to get three special productions started, one on the anniversary of the Russian Revolution, one on the Bolshoi ballet (hanging fire for three years), and the third on the Russian space program. It is believed that these programs may have been placed in jeopardy as a result of the Khrushchev program on NBC.

PEOPLE & PROGRAMS

THE LEONARD BERNSTEIN-Isaac Stern-Israel Philharmonic concert filmed in Jerusalem a few weeks ago has sold TV and theatrical rights to Filmways Inc., which plans to produce a television special based on the concert and its preparations.

EVER WONDER where "Dr. Kildare" went? The popular dramatic series, seen on NBC-TV for five years, is now being seen in 60 countries around the world. The most recent sales were to Belgium, Poland, Malta, Liberia, Pakistan and Iran.

PERRY MASON, another old favorite, returns to Ch. 4, WBSN-TV, on Monday, Aug. 14, from 5 to 6 p.m. as a week-day feature Mondays through Fridays. Raymond Burr, who portrays Perry Mason in the series, starts his new NBC-TV series, "Ironside," in Sept.

THE DOCUMENTARIES OF TED YATES, an examination of the unique contribution by the late NBC news correspondent who died from wounds received while covering the Arab-Israeli war, will be seen on NBC-TV Sunday, Aug. 6, at 6:30 p.m. Producer of many of NBC News' most widely-acclaimed specials, Yates will be seen at work behind the scenes, gathering material and carrying out assignments.

TOP VIEW

By CLARKE WILLIAMSON

Next month, TOP VIEWERS will vote on several of this summer's specials. We will continue surveys of individual specials during the fall and winter. Meanwhile, here is how you judged, overall, the major networks on last season's specials:

CBS special, 68.9%, good.
ABC specials, 58.5% above average.

NBC specials, 57.3% above average.

Continue voting today on the summer replacement programs. We ask new readers to join in this nationwide newspaper TV survey.

READERS SPEAK

Dear TV: In your July 2nd column a man wrote that some sponsor should get smart and take off the Saturday children's shows. Many who work five days a week sleep Saturday morning. Adults can stay up late but children 4 to 8 can't. There are adult shows from 1 p.m. to 2 or 3 a.m. Kids go to school five days a week. Please hear with us. Give us kids a chance. Alice Hernandez, Varco, Tex.

Dear TV: Unless there is a change and fewer commercials there won't be a viewing public. We know someone has to pay for the broadcast, but networks run in more commercials than is justifiable. When my TV plays out I am not going to replace it. — H. G. Taggart, Midland, S.D. (Next month TOP VIEW will ballot commercial. Ed.)

Dear TV: How many people, in an area of, say, 150,000, are golfers? Sunday after Sunday, favorite programs are cut off while at least two and sometimes three of the networks carry golf tournaments. I don't know who the "bright young men" are who make up the network formats, but they should be traded off for others with common sense. — Irish, Orlando, Fla.

Dear TV: People like pure escapism and totally ridiculous situations once in awhile. I like "intellectual" shows and Shakespeare just as much as the next person, but I'd hate to see nothing else but. Thank you for a survey that reflects how the viewers feel, not the networks. Neilsen's, etc. L.G.M., Springfield, Mass.

MANY ARE WORKING

Not Every Student Is Protesting

Do you recall that first summer you walked out of the classroom and into your first summer job and began to cope with some of life's realities?

When you are between the ages of 16 and 21, summer and the welcome change from the daily routine of school it brings, is as welcome as the next breath. For many the summer months not only mean a relief from the pressures of school, but offer young imaginative minds an opportunity to join the work-a-day world gaining experience as well as money.

The jobs are greatly varied, especially in the Warren County area where a high school student may prune Christmas trees, a pre-natal student may work on a road gang, a girl studying to be a teacher may work on a playground and a recent high school graduate works as a store stockboy.

If you asked these people why they worked, the reply you would most likely receive would be, "money." Undoubtedly, this is why most people work, but with these young individuals greater than the need for money is the need for them to keep busy.

The desire for a feeling of accomplishment and being part of the adult working world is common to most people of this age. After all academic competition, as they are accustomed to in school, is generally based from a theoretical viewpoint. For years these youngsters have studied the books, listened to their parents' advice and have even woven dreams of their own vocational success.

Now comes the time when the fledglings want to retain the security of their nest, but also desire to gauge their abilities in the adult world and its labor market. A summer job is as necessary for most young people as a high school diploma. The realities of life must be dealt with when a person is still young and ambitious. If a youth is denied this opportunity to participate in the labor market for a wage he is likely to develop a cynical outlook on life which will lessen his chances for making a contribution to society and possibly becoming a deviant. A job is a good discipline for a youth whether he works for an employer, or simply starts out with home chores. Police, social workers, attorneys and others concerned with juvenile delinquents will all tell you one of the best long tested remedies for this situation is employment to keep idle hands and minds busy.

President Johnson recently stated, "Woven into the national fabric are threads that weaken it—that make it sometimes ravel or tear. One of these threads is unemployment, particularly among youth." This statement was made in March when the third annual Youth Opportunity Campaign was launched. In 1965, the first campaign created a million extra jobs for young men and women between ages 16 and 21, and in 1966 an additional million jobs were found.

In Warren County this summer it is estimated there were over 500 high school and college students, between the ages of 16 and 21, looking for jobs. Andrew Donick, manager of the local state employment office, reports that since May 18, 67 of these people have been placed by the bureau in summer occupations. It is impossible to estimate how many have gotten jobs by going directly to the employer, but in talking to a number of these people it would seem the number would likely be over three times as great as those placed by the employment bureau. Another factor to consider is that of the summer employees who are working for employers that have hired them in previous summers.

Donick pointed out that last summer was the best the Warren area had seen in many years for summer employment as business was booming. Here that time things have slowed down somewhat, but in the work area made out fairly well so far this summer. However, this year there is have suffered in the job market as some local industries have had to even lay-off some of their full time help. Manufacturing provides one of the largest work areas which hire young men.

The employment picture for girls has not been completely bleak though. For instance the New Process Company has hired 10 girls for the summer, most of them college students. In addition a large number of girls make up the summer work force of 43 at the Warren General Hospital. Many others have been employed in restaurants, offices, stores and recreational work.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey has sent letters to 10 area industries commending them for their participation in the Youth Opportunity Campaign. The basic message of the letter states, "I am grateful for your support of the President's 1967 Youth Opportunity Campaign and support received from thousands of others. You have opened new opportunities to these young Americans which, I am sure, will help to prepare them for a brighter future. The nation is stronger for your contribution."

We have said a great deal about the youths who are working this summer and have lauded those employing them. But what about the large number of young people who were not able to find work this year? Lest we become too complacent about efforts made to employ these people let us measure some of our failure by the recent increase of juvenile crime and discontent in the Warren area. Granted, work is not the only answer to this problem, but it can go a long way to improve the situation.

We realize that government regulations and labor unions do not always make it easy to employ young people, but many Warren area businessmen and interested adults have made the effort and sacrifice of time to find jobs for these people and many times profit from their endeavor. A job which gradually aims a youth toward adulthood is one of the most valuable experiences he can undergo.

If we could sum it up into one sentence we might simply plead, "Help find a kid a summer job."

Dave Rydholm of Warren is employed this summer by the Pennsylvania Gas Company as a gas measurement assistant. Dave will be a sophomore this fall at Georgetown University where he is majoring in political science.

When you enter the commercial office of the Pennsylvania Gas Company on Second Avenue the friendly girl on the other side of the counter may be Kathy Dickerson of Warren, who is working there for the summer. Kathy will return to Lockhaven State College this fall as a sophomore. She is majoring in elementary education.

For children who are too young to obtain working papers many summer jobs can be found at home. Here Tom Meneo digs a drainage ditch in the back yard of his home while he gets professional advice and assistance from his younger brother Marty. The Meneos reside at 5 Elmwood Avenue in the Hill Crest development.

A game of box hockey at Crescent Playground is officiated by playground supervisor Linda McConnell. Linda is a physical education major at Slippery Rock State College.

Elaine Rhodes of Warren, a sophomore at Thiel College is getting some practical newspaper experience this summer as a writing assistant at the Warren Times-Mirror and Observer.

John Thompson of Warren, a Penn State student, is spending the summer working for the Pennsylvania Department of Highways. Today it is John's turn to be flagman, so slow down.
